ARMING MERCHANTMEN—Here's the first picture of a U.S. merchant ship, scheduled for service in the Atlantic within a few days, being armed with deck guns at Hoboken, N.J., under revision of the Neutrality Act.

No U.S. Compromise With Japan on China

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States government, it was learned today from the best available sources in Washington, has ruled out any possibility of a compromise with Japan on the Chinese issue and has raised a possibility that American merchant ships in the Pacific may be armed.

While it was reported on the highest authority that negotiations looking toward peace in the Pacific and Far East had not broken down, the United States viewed the present situation as extremely serious.

An official White House announcement concerning merchantmen said these vessels sailing on Pacific routes "will not be armed under existing circumstances."

And when President Roosevelt was asked at a press conference how long he thought those circumstances would prevail, he said he thought the question might better be asked in Tokyo.

He was asked also whether there was anything he might say on the negotiations with Japan's envoys in this country, Saburo Kurosu and Admiral Nomura, and replied he thought he had better not.

Yet he conceded that news on the negotiations had been based largely on dispatches from Tokyo and he declared the reason for this was an American policy of infinite patience.

It was learned on the best authority that the current situation in the Far East is regarded as serious because the U.S. desires that there be peace in the Pacific.

Reports of unabated Japanese military activity near the border of Thailand (Siam) brought new concern to the capital.

Diplomatic representatives of the other friendly powers involved—Britain, Australia, China and the Netherlands, took a similar serious view.

The same authority who told of the American desire to refrain from any steps altering the chances for peace in the Far East remarked also that the administration is interested in seeing that no other country takes steps to jeopardize peace.

The source for this view recalled that last spring there were American-Japanese talks on the Pacific situation, on the restoration of peace between China and Japan and on restoration of more normal economic conditions.

Secretary of State Hull was described as having engaged in these conferences with great patience. Then, the narrator continued, Japan sent an expedition into Indo-China in the middle of the conferences.

This caused great concern to the United States because it seemed to show, he said, a reasonable parallel with Hitler methods in Europe, as, for instance, when the German army began an infiltration into Rumania and Hungary, kept it up several months, and put the Nazi forces in a strategic position to attack Yugoslavia and Greece.

The drawing of the parallel, it was said, made peacefully-inclined people here wonder whether there was a beginning of similar action in the Far East. Such an action would place obvious American interests in great jeopardy, it was held, if the drawing of the parallel was justified.

But the question was left unanswered whether Japan might now be planning action against Thailand.

The administration was described as seeking to remove the present aggression in the Far East, but being definitely aligned against any agreement with Japan which would sacrifice the interests of China.

An invasion of Thailand, informed sources here believe, would probably be Tokyo's first move if the Japanese government should decide to resume its program of armed expansion southward and reject State Secretary Cordell Hull's basic formula for peace in the Pacific, re-stated to the Japanese envoys Wednesday and discussed again, presumably, at a conference the envoys had yesterday with President Roosevelt and Mr. Hull.

Talks Near End, Say Japan Papers

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese officials weighed State Secretary Cordell Hull's note today with no indication of whether it would be answered. The press expressed belief Japanese-United States negotiations are near an end.

Contents of the note handed by Hull Wednesday to Japan's conferees in Washington, Ambassador Nomura and special envoy Kurosu, were not disclosed.

Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo analyzed the present stands of Japanese-American relations, with special reference to the Hull document, at a cabinet meeting, but the government gave clue to its next step.

Itagaki May Take Post Tojo Holds

MANILA (AP)—Responsible Far Eastern authorities predicted early Saturday that current efforts to ensure U.S.-Japanese peace would fail and that this would cause replacement of the Tojo government in Japan by war program.

The post-Tojo government, they said, probably would complete preparations for new offensive action in Asia and for an eventual clash in which Japan would be ranged alongside Germany against the Anglo-Saxon powers.

Information from Japan was said to indicate the next cabinet might be headed by Lieut.-Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, former War Minister and now commander of the army in Korea.

U.S. Observer Held

CAIRO (AP)—Major Buckley, United States army observer with the British forces in Libya, has been captured, authorities announced tonight. It was understood he was not harmed.

Jones, director of training for the Royal Australian Air Force, will make an extensive tour of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan schools in Canada and also investigate the general welfare of trainees, it was announced today.

V.C. for Australian

LONDON (CP)—A young Australian officer who lay on the battleground for 26 hours after he was wounded during the Syrian campaign has been awarded the Victoria Cross for conspicuous gallantry, it was announced tonight in the London Gazette. He is Lieut. Arthur Cutler, the fourth Australian to win the Empire's highest military award.

Trap Axis Forces East of Tobruk

Associated Press
British Tobruk and Rezegh forces, consolidating their junction today, trapped large Axis forces to the east which immediately began to attempt to battle their way out, a British spokesman announced in Cairo.

Practically the entire Italian Bologna Division was wiped out in the action, the spokesman said.

Bitter fighting was in progress today, it was said, as an Axis column which had darted into Egypt two days ago as a diversion tried to get back to the Axis main forces. They were headed for a British wall, however, as the contact established with the Tobruk forces Thursday was strengthened into an effective line.

Broken Into Groups To Be Rounded Up

This flying column on its retreat westward was able to join with some forces from the strong Axis formations under the Axis African commander, Lieut.-Gen. Erwin Rommel, which was entrenched along the Egyptian-Libyan border southward from Halfaya (Hellfire Pass) to Sidi Omar when the British drive opened 11 days ago.

However, it was said, most of the forces were scattered by combined British air and ground forces which worked in unison to keep them trapped and smash them into small groups for easier annihilation.

British forces also were pushing westward from Tobruk farther along the Mediterranean coast, heading toward the strong Axis centres at Gazala and Derna.

The British commander, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, however, appeared to be concentrating for the moment on the big Axis armies locked to the east of Tobruk.

The biggest tank encounter Thursday occurred in this sector as the westward-moving Axis troops ran into the tank-toothed jaws of the British trap.

The Axis column was shattered, the spokesman said, some running northward toward Gambut, which New Zealanders had recaptured, and others southward "into the void" of the desert sands.

The spokesman, although stressing British forces now had completed the junction with the Tobruk garrison forces which had been besieged from the land side since April, nevertheless predicted heavy fighting in the Tobruk area.

To escape to the main Axis forces the trapped Germans and Italians to the eastward would have to break the new British Tobruk-Rezegh connection.

It is along this line the Royal

Navy expects to pour men and equipment into the battle area from Tobruk.

Striking westward from the Tobruk-Rezegh line, some of the British troops are attempting to clean out Axis pockets. At the same time, part of their forces remained behind to ward off assaults on the newly-established base of Ed Duda.

"Southeast of Tobruk British and New Zealand forces which Thursday made direct contact are forging their way westward in the face of determined opposition," today's communique said.

"At the same time east of their point of junction enemy detachments still in considerable strength are being engaged."

No Supplies By Sea for Enemy

In London today an authoritative source said the situation in Libya as a whole "continues to improve."

The BBC said today that since the beginning of the "great tank battles in Libya not one ton of supplies has reached the hard-pressed German and Italian armies by sea." The broadcast, heard by CBS at New York, said a squadron of British cruisers protected by destroyers had just made a sweep between the coasts of Cyrenaica and Crete.

Nazis 36 Miles From Capital

Moscow Peril Increases

Associated Press
Russia's Red armies acknowledged a grave new threat to Moscow today with the Germans advancing northeast of Tula, 100 miles south of the capital, and registering new gains in the Volokolamsk sector, 65 miles northwest of Moscow.

Soviet dispatches said German troops smashing into the centre of Moscow's defence arc from Mozhaisk were but 36 miles from the U.S.S.R. capital. This was the closest approach to Moscow from due west so far announced by the Russians.

On the southern part of the arc Russians said Nazi troops were attempting to encircle the key munitions centre of Tula while heavy German artillery and trench mortars bombarded the town. A nearby village, identified only as "N," was said to have fallen to the invaders.

ENORMOUS LOSSES

Soviet reports said Hitler's armies before Moscow were suffering "tremendous" losses, with as many as 15,500 Nazis killed in a single day.

North of the capital, the Russians appeared to have at least a momentary advantage, reporting two Red army troops violently counter-attacking in the Kalinin sector, 90 miles north of Moscow, "drove wedges into enemy lines and reoccupied many villages." There was no mention of the more immediate danger in the Klin sector, 50 miles northwest of Moscow.

Frontline reports to Pravda, said the Germans were striking savagely on both flanks of Moscow's defence arc, with the heavy-est blows apparently falling on the southern wing.

The Berlin radio claimed Russian troops had evacuated the town of Skopin, 150 miles southeast of Moscow, and that it was about to fall to advancing German columns. Skopin lies 50 miles southeast of Smolensk, the scene of heavy German pressure earlier this week.

Without giving details, Pravda said tersely that "Moscow's peril is increasing."

GERMAN CLAIMS

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters was equally brief, declaring merely that Field Marshal von Bock's armies had shed strong Soviet defences before the capital.

Dies Rescuing Woman at Fire

Archibald Pearce died at Jubilee Hospital today from burns received while he was rescuing Miss Maris Woffindin from the upstairs floor of his burning boarding house, 905 Cook Street, Thursday night.

He was found by firemen at the foot of the stairway, over come by smoke and burns. His body was draped across Miss Woffindin, whom he had carried down the flaming stairs.

The condition of Miss Woffindin, who was treated at Jubilee Hospital for shock and burns, is not serious, Dr. J. P. Vye, who attended, reported today.

Pearce died of injuries to the respiratory system and external burns, Dr. Vye said.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearce were playing crib at the time of the outbreak, but did not notice the fire. The alarm was turned in from a firebox at Burdett and Cook by a passerby who noticed the flames in the window.

Fire Chief Alex Munroe attributed the fire to defective electric wiring in addition to a wet connection following washing of the floor.

When the fire chief arrived at the fire, the building was in flames. He said it seemed people got out of the upstairs rooms by the veranda roof, but he is not sure of that. It is believed there were four or five people in the house.

Two fire engines were sent and two hoses put down. The number 6 street car, proceeding up Cook Street, ran over one of the hoses, cutting it in two, hampering the work of the firemen.

"I went in at a side door," Fire Chief Munroe said. "Mrs. Pearce was there and I said she had better get out as it was pretty hot. She said there was still someone in there."

"I opened the inner door and arrived at the foot of the stairway at the same time firemen came in from the front door," Chief Munroe continued.

Two people were at the foot of the stairs, he said. Both overcome by the heat and flames, Pearce was lying on top of Miss Woffindin, protecting her from the flames which were now roaring up the stairway like in a chimney flue.

Pearce was taken out first. Firemen sent for a second inhalator to resuscitate him. The ambulance and police arrived simultaneously.

"When Pearce left he said he felt fairly well," Fire Chief Munroe said.

The fire was brought under control in a few moments after the hoses were put in. Being downstairs it was accessible to the firemen. A number of firemen were temporarily overcome by the smoke and heat but none were injured.

"I'm very, very sorry this happened," Fire Chief Munroe said today. "We have had a wonderful record of freedom from loss of life in fires."

BORN IN LONDON

Pearce was born in London on April 9, 1880. He was educated at King's College and sang in the Temple choir.

At the outbreak of the South African War he served with the Artists' Rifles. He returned to England for a short time after the war and then went back to South Africa a few years later, touring with a theatrical company.

In 1914 he joined the Royal Munster Fusiliers and served in Iran, at Gallipoli and in France. He was made a major and was severely wounded.

Soon after demobilization in 1920 he came to Victoria to join his brother Henry. In 1922 he went to Mt. Vernon, Washington and opened an accountant office but returned to Canada in 1923. He lived in Vancouver, Calgary and Victoria between 1929 and 1937. He retired about a year ago at Firwood Lodge on Cook Street, where with his wife he operated a boarding house.

He was a member of the Masonic Order, Victoria Kiwanis Club and the Union Club.

An inquest into his death has been set for Monday at 10.30 at Sands Mortuary Ltd.

The funeral has been arranged for Tuesday at 2.30.

Dies in Crash With Street Car

Clement W. Holden, Victoria real estate man, who lived at 2154 Windsor Road, died on the way to hospital from injuries received when his automobile was in a head-on collision with a street car on Oak Bay Avenue, at the intersection of Davie Street, at 8.10 Thursday night.

William Dayton, operator of the street car, said he saw the automobile coming towards him and he stopped his car before the collision occurred. He was going west on Oak Bay Avenue.

Mr. Holden was going east when his car apparently got out of control. The impact of the crash ripped and crumpled the left side of the car from the radiator to the rear fender. The windshield, windows and dashboard glass were splintered. The left front door was crumpled inwards and the door handle sheared off. The left front wheel buckled into the axle.

Dr. Herman Robertson was called but found Mr. Holden had died before he arrived at hospital.

Detective Wilkinson and Constable D. Blackstock of the city police force attended at the accident. They took measurements and Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, was notified.

Born in Montreal 52 years ago, Mr. Holden had been a resident of Victoria for the past 50 years. A member of the Gordon Highlanders before the outbreak of war, he went overseas with the 30th Battalion. He served in France with the 7th Battalion, and was with the Royal Flying Corps during the latter part of the war.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two daughters, Marie Louise Isabel and Gloria Dorothy, both at home; and one stepson, Vernon Miller. He also had a brother, Alexander Holden, at present in Juneau, Alaska; two sisters, Mrs. D. L. Gillespie of Toronto and Mrs. T. H. Burns of Hampshire Road. He was a nephew of the late Dr. D. B. Holden of Victoria.

The remains are resting at the chapel of the Sands Mortuary, where the funeral will take place Monday at 2. Cremation will be at Royal Oak.

Gallup Poll Saturday

What Is Canada's Most Important Problem?

In cities, farms and small towns across the length of the Dominion in the past fortnight interviewers for the Gallup Poll of Canada have been putting this question to men, and women in all walks of life:

"In your opinion, what is the most important problem the Canadian government must solve in the next few months?"

The results—when they are published tomorrow in the Times and more than a score of other leading Canadian newspapers—will provide a picture of public opinion virtually as precise as if every man and woman in the Dominion had been asked for his views.

For the survey is the first ever to be conducted in Canada by means of the Gallup method of scientific sampling—in which a cross-section of the population, selected with mathematical precision from every province and every station in life have been interviewed.

Tests of the same method in Britain, United States and Australia have confirmed the accuracy of scientific sampling, and many political observers have hailed the new instrument of measurement as an aid to the efficiency of the whole democratic process.

The Gallup Poll points out that a certain small "margin of error" is involved in all sampling operations, but experience has shown that a margin of three or four percentage points in 100 is usually a sufficient allowance in interpreting survey results.

In its first survey question the Gallup Poll of Canada has asked a cross-section of the people to name the most pressing problems facing the Dominion—as seen by the people themselves.

Make a mental note of your own answer—and compare it with the views of a cross-section of the Canadian public in tomorrow's Times.

Britain Ready for Pacific Emergency

LONDON (CP)—United States aid in the Battle of the Atlantic has enabled Britain to delegate to the Pacific the sort of ships (that is, battleships) needed to meet a "really great naval power," an authoritative source said tonight.

The informant meant Japan, whose strength in capital ships is far superior to that of the Italian or German navies. Against the Axis Britain needs only lighter craft.

The source plainly indicated Britain has increased her naval power in the Far East in the face of Japanese ambitions, recalling Prime Minister Churchill's recent declaration of readiness to join the United States "within the hour" in any fight with Japan.

War Places Limit On Christmas Stocks

"Buy early or you may go without" is the warning Victoria retailers give to Christmas shoppers this year. And they add: "Make the most of your purchasing power this year, because when Christmas, 1942, arrives, money or not, the goods won't be here for purchase."

With deliveries far behind schedule in almost all lines of goods and no guarantee that they will be made before Dec. 25, all store owners and managers advise the public to shop early. They warn the "day before Christmas shoppers" all lines of popular presents will have vanished before the last-hour rush starts.

Next year priorities for war manufacturing will put the biggest crimp ever known into Canadian Christmas trade. Manufacturers will not be able to get the materials for gift manufacturing and all stores are afraid that Yuletide stock for 1942 will be infinitesimal.

Retailers say: "Buy now and make the most of your opportunity because, money or not, you won't be able to next year."

GOING QUICKLY

Christmas sales have noticeably got under way. One month ago people were buying for relatives and troops overseas and friends nearer home.

With the influence of the war, the fastest-selling toys for kiddies are toy soldiers, tanks and guns. The baby doll still attracts the eye of the little girl. Salesgirls at one store testified they were selling better than ever.

At the same store children's books and all types of games, especially Chinese checkers, were selling as well as in former years.

The manager of another store, possessing a large toy department, said: "It is gratifying to know that Christmas shoppers appreciate the fact that Canadian and American toys are superior to the Jap product and are willing to pay extra to get the quality."

He said, however, that the stock was not as complete as last year's and there was a possibility that many lines would disappear before Dec. 25.

The drug stores reported sales of cosmetics and other beauty aids at the same tempo as last year at this date and a marked tendency toward purchase of more expensive types. The same was true of toilet sets, which were selling well. They attributed this to the plentiful wartime work and money. One drug-gist said he had few approaches for credit, a marked change from former years.

ENGLISH RECORDS POPULAR

Music stores are feeling the Christmas pick-up and say that the increased sale of combination radio-phonographs is the largest feature of the seasonal sales. English phonograph records, arriving regularly with few losses, are proving popular as presents.

The book section of one store reported that new fiction was selling well. A. J. Cronin's "Keys of the Kingdom" is the most popular of books being bought for presents. In the children's line, picture books and English annuals are selling quickly, with a chance of the overseas books selling out due to the small stock obtainable.

The sweetheart's reliable stand-by, chocolates, are selling more quickly than they were last year at this date. The tendency here, also, is to buy better grade sweets than formerly. English toffee is plentiful.

Ladies' and men's slippers and ladies' evening slippers and over-shoes feature Christmas buying in the stores of footwear vendors, although seasonal sales are just beginning to be felt.

Jewelry store clerks and managers say they are selling valuables in every line and notice people are buying better value merchandise.

"However," said one store owner, "this will be our last good Christmas until the end of the war. We won't have any stock next year."

One men's clothing store said sales were up 20 per cent over last year at this time. Shirts, ties, socks, sweaters, dressing gowns, smoking jackets and handkerchiefs were taking their usual Christmas upswing.

"Pay day at the end of the month and that magic word, December, will really start sales going," said one clerk.

Sporting stores, benefiting by the opening of the Ice Arena, are selling skates like an automat. Although many will touch ice before Christmas, hundreds of pairs are being bought to put under the Christmas tree. Bicycle sales, which sagged in the depression years, are booming this year and many youngsters, who might never have owned new bicycles had it not been for the war, will look at shining paint and nickel Christmas morning.

Whatever their product, salesmen reiterate this warning: "Buy early, or you may have to go without."

Christmas presents to the boys overseas have all been dispatched. Cigarettes were the biggest item, all tobacco salesmen reporting a tremendous increase over last year's ship-

UNIONS DISCLAIM STRIKE 'HOLIDAY'

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Possibility of a 24-hour "holiday" of Canadian trade unionists in support of the Kirkland Lake gold miners' strike was disclaimed today in an exchange of telegrams between union officials concerning reports credited to Silby Barrett, international board member of the United Mine Workers.

Speaking Thursday to striking miners' members of Local 240, International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (I.M.S.W.), which called a strike Nov. 18 against eight mines, Barrett was heard by newspapermen to say:

"We want action whereby the workers will take a 24-hour holiday to discuss this question of the Kirkland Lake strike. That's one of the things that will be discussed at the trade union meeting Saturday morning."

OVERSEAS MAIL

OTTAWA (CP)—Postmaster-General Mulock again draws attention to a falling-off in the correct addressing of mail for men overseas, and in particular to those members of the R.C.A.F. serving with R.A.F. units.

As location of these men is kept by the R.A.F. record rather than by the R.C.A.F., it is essential the fact the addressee is with a R.A.F. unit be indicated by including the words "attached Royal Air Force" in the address unless the number of the R.A.F. unit is known, which should in that case be given. It also helps if the indication "Royal Canadian Air Force Overseas" is given instead of "Canadian Army Overseas."

The address of men of the R.C.A.F. serving overseas should include the following information:

If serving with a R.C.A.F. unit overseas:

Number.
Rank, surname, followed by initials.
Name of unit (when known), Royal Canadian Air Force, Overseas.
Example, when R.A.F. unit: (Can.) R 1723, Sgt. Black, J. W., No. 401 Squadron, R.C.A.F., Royal Canadian Air Force, Overseas.

If attached to a R.A.F. unit overseas:

Number.
Rank, surname, followed by initials.
Name of Royal Air Force unit, Royal Canadian Air Force, Overseas.
Example, when R.A.F. unit is known: (Can.) R 1926, L.A.C. Jones, A. N., No. 10 Squadron, R.A.F., Royal Canadian Air Force, Overseas.

Example, when unit of R.A.F. is not known: (Can.) R 2176, A.C.1 Smith, W.F., Attached Royal Air Force, Royal Canadian Air Force, Overseas.

In the case of R.C.A.F. officers the form of address is the same except the air force number should be written after the name and rank of the officer.

Place-names may be used in addressing mail to officers and airmen with R.A.F. units, but when place-names are used the name of the unit must not be given.

In the case of parcels, if a place-name is included in the address, they will be handled through the civil postal service, overseas, and there is a possibility customs charges may be imposed, the minister said.

Majority placed the increase at "easily over 100 per cent." Tobacco shipments also increased, but not as much as cigarettes.

Inexpensive shaving equipment was the next largest item sent to the troops for Christmas. Many blades and shaving bowls and shaving sticks were sent. The two latter items were more popular than shaving cream in tubes.

To remind the men over there to write home more often, parents, sweethearts, brothers and sisters sent hundreds of boxes of gift stationery.

In the clothing line socks and sweaters stole the show for shipment to Britain. Food parcels, which were sent regularly throughout the year, stepped up noticeably, but most of these were destined to civilians.

Blonde Charged With Robbery Attempt

VANCOUVER (CP)—Blonde Marie Dueck, 26, was held in the city jail today on a charge of attempted robbery with violence following her arrest in a downtown cafe Thursday after an attempt had been made to hold up an east end branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

She was remanded till Dec. 5 when she appeared in police court today.

Dennis Boyd, teller, said that shortly before 3 p.m., closing time, "a platinum blonde with blue eyes" approached his wicket and pushed the barrel of a gun through the bars of his cage with the command: "Stick 'em up."

Boyd said he ducked behind the counter and shouted to an employee, Miss C. Yipp, to telephone police. The woman bandit took alarm and fled, pursued by Boyd, who followed her to a nearby cafe. He remained outside until police arrived.

Police subsequently said the women's weapon was a toy pistol, but Boyd said "it looked realistic enough at the time."

The teller said that after the woman's approach "the first thing I knew I was on the floor with my own gun in my hand. But I couldn't shoot her—she was a woman."

Adult Conscription Challenged By I.L.P.

LONDON (CP)—The small Independent Labor Party today decided to challenge the government motion introduced in the House of Commons Thursday in the name of Prime Minister Churchill urging that all adults in Britain should be liable to national service.

Newspapers, which expressed unanimous editorial approval of the government's action, carried announcements that three of the I.L.P. members had tabled an amendment demanding the measure be given a six months' hold—a parliamentary method of postponing consideration of a bill and in effect killing it.

Canada's Sales

To Egypt Soar

MONTREAL (CP)—Henri Turcot, Canadian trade commissioner to Egypt, said here that Canada's war exports to Egypt for the first nine months of this year totaled $51,000,000.

Trade leaped from a peacetime level of $1,400,000 for 11 Balkan and Near East countries to $7,000,000 for Egypt alone last year; and now at the present rate, exports to Egypt alone in 1941 will likely be close to $60,000,000, he added.

Selassie's Empire Restored

Gondar, Duce's Last Outpost In East Africa, Surrenders

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony (CP)—Gondar, mountainous stronghold and last bastion of Mussolini's east African empire, surrendered Thursday night after a hard-driven, two-way attack, British east African headquarters said today.

(The surrender was acknowledged by the Italian command in a Rome dispatch which stated the Ethiopian city's garrison had exhausted its power to resist before capitulating).

The announcement gave no details on the number of prisoners taken by the attacking Empire force of Highland troops, Indians, Sudanese and South and west African units. Military observers said, however, the Gondar garrison was believed to exceed 10,000 men—at least half of them Italians.

The announcement said the final assault on the hold-out stronghold with Lake Tana region of northwestern Ethiopia was made principally by east African troops, who thus had "the honor of finally overthrowing Mussolini's east African empire."

MANY EAST AFRICANS

More east African forces took part in the battle than in any previous fight in the African campaign, the war bulletin said. "The attack began at dawn on both flanks and was pressed home with great determination by all available forces," the communiqué said. "The battle took place in high, mountainous country very favorable to defence and averaging 7,000 feet above sea level.

"By 1.30 a.m. the enemy lines had been pierced on both flanks. Our troops fought magnificently. By midday the whole of the enemy's southern flank was turned and our attack was passing around to his rear."

The Italian commander, Gen. Nasi, surrendered by evening, the bulletin said.

The other British forces along with some Free French units held the Gondar garrison hemmed in for the final assault touched off after months of tightening siege.

SOFTENED BY AIR ATTACKS

Bombers and fighter planes of the Royal and South African Air Forces softened up the Gondar defences with a final heavy raid during the early stages of the attack.

"Our aircraft in the early afternoon saw our armored fighting vehicles entering Gondar and our own troops approaching the town from a hill on the southern side" the communiqué said. "Shortly afterward a car with a white flag was seen approaching our forces."

The British command said the heaviest aerial attacks on Gondar were carried out within recent days—on Nov. 17 "when the enemy defences were bombed and machine-gunned almost without cessation" and on Nov. 20 when the air attack "lasted without break for 10 hours."

CAMPAIGN WOUND UP

With the fall of Gondar British forces have stamped out the last bulwark of Italy's East African empire.

The fate of the colonial empire was virtually sealed last April 7 when South African motorized forces sped into the capital of Addis Ababa almost without opposition and captured 5,000 Italian troops. Two days later Imperial forces took Massaua in Eritrea on the Red Sea.

The clean-up in the northeast was completed with surrender of Dessie with 8,000 men April 28, and finally the capitulation of the Duke of Aosta, Italian commander and viceroy, with 7,000 troops at the hilltop fortress of Amba Alaji May 19.

Emperor Haile Selassie, back on his throne at Addis Ababa after directing the fifth-column technique which had a part in ousting of the Italians, once again rules over the whole of his country of 350,000 square miles and 10,000,000 population.

Naples Raided Again By R.A.F.

ROME (AP)—British planes caused "notable damage" during a raid on Naples Thursday night, an Italian communiqué said today.

Anti-aircraft batteries and night fighters shot down three planes, the statement claimed.

British bombs were admitted to have started a number of "small" fires which were extinguished. Five civilians were injured.

HITLER COOL TO QUISLING

LONDON (CP)—Vidkun Quisling, Norway's No. 1 Nazi, is being cold-shouldered by Hitler, the Norwegian telegraph agency said Thursday night. It pointed to the fact that he had stood on the sidelines while German satellite nations gathered at Berlin for the anti-comintern conference.

The agency interpreted the absence of Quisling from the German observances as indicating Hitler considers the puppet ruler incapable of speaking for German-occupied Norway.

Quisling's feelings, the agency said, were "hurt" because he was not invited to the party and this was reflected in an article he wrote for the newspaper Frit Folk. In this article Quisling complained that Norway has been "compelled to stand by as an unnoticed onlooker who has lost everything."

He blamed the "ignominious situation" on the Norwegian people.

Georgia Canary Sips Whisky

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—"Dopey," her pet canary, has a fondness for whisky and tobacco, Mrs. Clint Hager says, and sometimes "gets drunk as a billygoat and wants to fight."

Dopey fell from his nest at birth a year ago. Mrs. Hager said she and her husband revived the featherless bird with a few drops of whisky and raised him in a shoe box incubator.

Now, she says, Dopey comes winging in for his share whenever cocktails are served, and at parties helps himself from any body's glass.

Once, after a few "drinks" the canary flew at the Hagers' bulldog. The dog flew out the back door. Now they are inseparable friends.

Dopey picked up the tobacco habit, Mrs. Hager said, from her husband's pipe. He picks the tobacco grain by grain from the pipe and swallows it.

New Britain Arising—Coldwell

MONTREAL (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader in the House of Commons, convinced by his recent trip to Britain that "the British people will never go back" to prewar conditions, declared Thursday night that wherever he had gone he had seen and heard evidence that "a new Britain—socially and economically—already is arising."

"The people of Great Britain are convinced this is undoubtedly a people's war," Mr. Coldwell said at a party rally here in his first address since his return from Britain with a party of Canadian parliamentarians.

The devastation of English slum areas by German bombs—for which the British people in general thank God—symbolized a step in British thought which would never be retraced, he said.

The British people know that all the rights they have fought for throughout the years are at stake in the present war and British labor leaders are determined to see this thing through.

"There is a minority in Britain which fears that the people—now on the march—will march along the road of social and economic progress that will end forever the rule of a privileged few."

MILK FOR CHILDREN

A most important beacon of the "new order" was the fact that "by co-operative effort every child in Britain is getting milk to drink for the first time in history."

Criticizing the Canadian government's labor policies, Mr. Coldwell said he had asked Labor Minister Bevin in London whether the British government recognized collective bargaining in its own factories.

"Why wouldn't the government recognize the right of our own employees to bargain collectively?" he quoted Mr. Bevin as replying. "That's what we are fighting for. My own union is in the government dockyards and there isn't a man in Britain who wants it otherwise."

Mr. Coldwell added: "What a contrast that is to the attitude towards labor in the country in which we live."

SAYS CANADA LAGS

"I fear that as far as social progress is concerned, Canada lags far behind the old land and far, far behind her sister dominions of Australia and New Zealand. That is because we in Canada have not yet got the organization that will bring about improved conditions."

"We must get rid of old prejudices and cut out old associations and stand ready as a people to co-operate in building a Canada and a world in which the rights of all peoples will be respected and the generation of tomorrow will find peace and security."

INVASION ATTEMPT

All the leaders he had spoken to in Britain were convinced that Hitler would eventually attempt an invasion of England. However, coastal defences and the R.A.F. were so strong that he doubted more than a temporary bridgehead could ever be established anywhere in Britain. Canadian troops in England

R.A.F. Pounds Duesseldorf

LONDON (CP)—A large scale aerial attack on Duesseldorf was announced today by the Air Ministry, which said "railways and industrial districts were heavily bombed."

Docks at Ostend and German airdromes in the Low Countries also were said to have been attacked as the British bombers swept eastward into Germany. (In Berlin Nazi sources admitted a number of British planes flew over western and northwestern Germany Thursday night and dropped a few bombs that caused property damage and killed or wounded several persons.)

The Air and Home Security Ministries announced a small number of persons was injured and some damage was caused in German air raids in coastal districts of East Anglia and southwestern England.

An earlier communiqué reported destruction by the R.A.F. of four German ships—two supply vessels and two anti-aircraft boats, in raids Thursday.

Conservative Wins London By-election

LONDON (CP)—Flying Officer Charles Challen, official Conservative candidate, won the four-cornered Hampstead by-election with a plurality of 4,896 votes.

The airman defeated Noel Pemberton-Billing, "bomb Berlin" candidate, and two other independents, W. R. Hipwell and Arthur Dolland, both of whom lost their deposits.

The victor, who said his election was "a remarkable and emphatic verdict in favor of the government and Prime Minister Churchill," polled 7,630 votes against 2,734 for Pemberton-Billings, who was contesting his fourth by-election in recent months. Hipwell polled 636 votes and Dolland 326.

Place For Plain Talk

A PART FROM THE DISTURBING POLITICAL problems which the elections of last month produced in this province, the Liberal Party of British Columbia is now faced by the obligation to deal with an internal situation which demands courageous action, plain talk and democratic honesty of purpose. The president of the provincial Liberal Association has called a convention to be held in Vancouver next Tuesday, two days before the 20th Legislature is scheduled to assemble, and in so doing he has acted in accordance with the strict provisions of the Association's constitution.

We are presuming that all delegates who will go to the Vancouver gathering fully understand the importance of the meeting, what it means to the reputation of the Liberal Party, and what effect their decisions may have on its future and its contribution to stable government in British Columbia. Much already has been said by cabinet ministers, by those who were defeated at the polls, by those who have since been in and out of the reorganized ministry, and by several private members of the next Legislature who have already announced their attitude toward the circumstances with which they have to contend. What is running through the minds of those ministers who are still carrying on the King's government we do not know. They are fully conversant by this time with what those on the outside have said; and they have probably guessed at the thoughts of some others.

What all delegates must now decide, however, is how they intend to behave, what they intend to say, out loud, in the presence of those who may or may not agree with them. Nothing being said now—nothing that may be said between now and next Tuesday—on the street corners of Victoria or Prince Rupert or Vancouver or Kamloops will have any effect on the convention unless such sentiments become vocal there. In other words, if any delegate remains mute at that gathering and comes away displeased, he or she will, or should, look in vain for sympathy. If a Liberal does not feel free to say what he or she feels, what he or she thinks, at a Liberal convention, it is not a Liberal convention.

Our Way Better

SIX OR SEVEN YEARS AGO A YOUNG German visited this continent, spending several months in the United States when the "strike situation" was causing the then young Roosevelt administration a good deal of concern. He was interviewed by one of the New York dailies and he wanted to know why somebody did not do something about it. He was not satisfied with the answer he received and, with a triumphant grin, reminded the reporter that "this sort of thing is not permitted in Germany." "No," he was told, "but, but as it is, we believe here that it is all a part of the price of freedom, and that it is worth the price."

This dip into history reminds us of our neighbor's current difficulties, and those of our own country, too, and gives us no cause to challenge the truth of the words uttered when Hitler had been in power only a year or so. For example, it would have been better if Mr. John L. Lewis had seen the light before he called on the miners of the captive coal fields to strike for the second time. Sooner or later, of course, the time must come when the "I want what I want when I want it" attitude in all men wielding a powerful influence on the general welfare must yield to a sense of proportion, a broad view of the whole people's necessities. But Mr. Roosevelt was patient, long-suffering, and careful to secure to the miners and to Lewis every inch of their democratic rights in the face of what majority public opinion must have believed was a gross misuse of those rights. Other people have rights, too, and it is their right to be assured that a mighty effort to make a nation's policy a success must not be nullified by the capricious exercise of technical rights by a small group—whether that group represents the worker or the employer. The presidential refusal to accept the resignations from the National Defence Mediation Board of Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O., and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers (C.I.O.), yesterday, incidentally, provided further evidence of Mr. Roosevelt's desire to make haste slowly where such vital decisions are involved.

The "easy" solution of the captive coal strike might have been to clap Lewis into a concentration camp at the outset, and drive the miners to work at bayonet point. But that would not have been a wise, long-term solution, and it would not have been a democratic solution. Further, it would not have worked. All of us naturally experience that sick feeling when we see temporary disturbance and disruption. But even that does not justify lack of faith that in the long run the way of democracy is better than that of totalitarianism; that it is part of the price of freedom; and that, looking at it the long way with all the future before us, is worth the price.

No Appeasement

INFORMATION FROM "THE BEST available sources in Washington" today indicates that the United States has ruled out any possibility of a compromise with Japan on the Chinese issue. While this attitude was taken for granted when Mr. Cordell Hull reminded Japanese Ambassador Nomura and special envoy Saburo Kurusu that the Roosevelt administration's course would conform to the "basic principles" of the nation's foreign policy—and specifically as it related to the peace and security of the Pacific—the feeling had persisted in some quarters that the "Chinese incident" might be examined for its bargain-counter possibilities. In fairness to both President Roosevelt and Mr. Hull, however, it should be recalled that nothing either has said since the tempo of United States-Japanese negotiations quickened could be interpreted as anything approaching appeasement in the face of Japanese bluff and bluster. It is presumed from the tone of the Washington dispatch to which we have alluded, therefore, that the point has been raised in an apparent effort to discover the specific contents of the "document" which the Secretary of State handed to the two Japanese on Wednesday.

Nothing would please the men of Tokyo better than some form of truce that would postpone complete acceptance of the "basic principles"—first enunciated by Mr. Hull in July, 1937, soon after the "Chinese incident" opened—which the Secretary has just reaffirmed. Such a condition would continue to hold inactive large naval, military and air forces of the ABCD combination without in any way removing the threat of further aggression in the Pacific. Hitler fervently desires this. On the other hand, of course, it requires little imagination to understand the difficulty confronting the war lords of Tokyo as they realize that peace in the Pacific can be bought only by an undertaking to withdraw Japanese troops from China, resignation from the totalitarian Axis alliance, disbanding of the Wang Ching-wei puppet government at Nanking, and the abandonment of all attempts to establish a "co-prosperity sphere" in East Asia by force. But Japan has created her own dilemma; it is for her to say now what she proposes to do about it.

War and Savings

OUR MORNING CONTEMPORARY tells us today that "when there is hesitation in responding to War Loan appeals it is due to a widely-prevalent belief that at such a time of crisis there should be a National Government," and that "any effort to increase investments in War Savings Certificates, could be launched with far greater hopes of success were a National Government in power." And the Colonist rounds off its argument with this:

"There are, in fact, sources of taxation left, the utilization of which can well postpone the day when compulsory loans may be regarded as necessary. Such a method of financing can be postponed altogether by promoting that unity of purpose which would be implied by a National Government, a consummation that would give the people the knowledge that in political direction they were pulling their full weight in the war, which they are not doing at this time and will never do under a party administration."

We are further told by the morning paper that the existing administration is falling short in directing the country's war effort, and that this opinion "will always prevail so long as there is no conscription for overseas service." Some of the apprehension of which the Colonist speaks may well have been produced by the almost daily walls which it has been sending up to high heaven for the last year or more—ever since the people of Canada decided, for better or for worse, they did not want a Conservative or a National Government.

But it will be noted our contemporary can generate no enthusiasm for the wisdom and necessity of increasing sales of War Savings Certificates, let alone for the principle of compulsory loans, but it is apparently ready to shriek itself hoarse in an attempt to challenge the people's right to choose the government they want. And it is even more than ready to conscript every available eligible man for overseas service whether industrial production can spare him or not. What kind of double-talk is this?

Berlin blames the weather for the failure to take Moscow. But if Hitler didn't take the Russian winter into his calculations he must have expected to be in Moscow long before this—and if so his famous timetable has been decisively upset.

FATALITIES IN AIR TRAINING

From Ottawa Journal

Fatalities in the tremendous operations of the Air Training Plan are, unfortunately, inevitable. The bald fact is that there had been 157 of them to the end of September last, according to figures released by the Air Minister.

That so many fine young men who had dedicated their lives to the defence of this country should lose them by accident is heart-breaking. But there is another side to the story.

In the period covered by these 157 fatalities 224,486,625 miles were flown by the Training Plan schools at an average of 125 miles per hour. This means there was one fatality for every 1,429,851 miles—a better record, the minister mentioned, than that shown by civilian flying in the United States for 1940.

Considering the nature of the training these young men must receive to fit them for modern air work it is clear that Major Power's use of the word "remarkable" to describe his figures was justified. Actually as many people have been killed in traffic accidents in the streets of Toronto alone, during the life of the Air Training Plan, as in the nation-wide operations of the plan itself.

DECLARATION OF WAR

IN CANADA WE THINK about the United States in terms of a declaration of war. It is not a very realistic way to think about the chief question of our time. Long ago I bet a friend in Vancouver that the United States would be in the war by last September and he insisted on me paying the bet, as a loser. Actually, of course, I won the bet and am going to sue shortly for my dollar; because the United States was in the war last September. It is in deeper now. But it has not declared war on Germany and it will not declare war for some time yet—at least, not unless Germany precipitates a declaration by some blundering incident.

You come down here to Washington all hot and bothered about a war declaration. You ask everywhere when it will occur. The Americans are not hot and bothered about it because they do not attach much importance to it, as an immediate possibility.

The inner policy of the government, the secret calculations of the President, I cannot pretend to tell you. I doubt that more than three people know those things. But I can tell you the thoughts of some of the highest men in the nation who, I believe, do reflect the immediate policy of the government. And I find them all in agreement.

They argue, to begin with, that a declaration of war by the United States would do Britain no material good and might do her grave material harm. You are familiar with this theory—that if the United States were legally at war its army and navy would want many supplies now moving to Britain. Further, if it went to war the United States, these men say, could not do anything of importance that it is not doing now. (I am not arguing this, mind you, but reporting what is undoubtedly the official belief). Certainly the United States could not send an expeditionary force of any large size to Europe for a year or 18 months at earliest.

THE THEORY

IN A CERTAIN OFFICE a certain gentleman, whose name is a household word throughout the world, pointed to the map of the Atlantic. "In the last war," he said, "it took us 18 months to get 2,000,000 men to France when we had plenty of shipping and all the French ports. We even built new ports to handle them. Now we lack shipping and it would require five times as much shipping per man as in the last war because of the development of equipment in the last 20 years. And we have no ports in Europe at all. Yes, we could send an army to the Russian front, I suppose, but there are plenty of Russian soldiers. What they need is equipment."

This, of course, is a complete simplification of the argument and leaves out many things. For example, the United States could occupy a base in western Africa to protect its southern interests as it has occupied Iceland to protect the north. There is nothing in the American government's policy to prevent the establishment of an African base and there is a strong public opinion in favor of it.

These calculations also leave out the whole moral factor, which may be the most important of all—the effect of a war declaration on American morale, on defence strikes, and on the peoples of Europe. They leave out another great question, namely this: If Hitler should stabilize his eastern front he may start a new peace offensive, telling the world, in effect, that he has finished his conquests and is sitting down to organize the New Order. If the United States is not legally at war then, it is probable that a substantial body of isolationist opinion will say it's no use going ahead with the war—too bad, but it's finished. Without doubt, this is the largest argument for a war declaration. Such a declaration would not give us one extra soldier, ship or gun at the start anyway, but it would be a final guarantee of victory.

But, even without that declaration, one comes away from Washington with no doubt about our victory whatever—provided the Russians can hold out for a while yet. Within the next year, as I shall try to show in another report tomorrow, the United States is going to produce such a flood of weapons as the world has never seen before—an irresistible force.

V FOR VICTORY WITH A VENGEANCE

Various vigorous sons of Victoria have volunteered to become vagrants in far-off versts or valleys vast, venturing vicariously; victims of virulent vicissitudes, versatile, virile veterans, vouching to vex that voracious, vulpine, vicious villain, who vainly vociferates vehemently, in his voluble vernacular, in vein of veritably vague vagrancy; void of valid values, with vaunted vision of vindication, which our voluntary Victorians regard as so much vile vituperative vibration, and vow to vanquish the vandal with volcanic velocity. Vying with vim, virtue and verve to vindicate the valorous stand of virtuous nations and carry on valiantly, until the vampire is vanquished, and every vestige of his vain vaunting are vacuous and vanished, when the victims enter their "Valhalla," and we all join the victors in singing the "Venite."—By "Veronica."

Consider it the highest implety to prefer life to honor, and to lose the great motive of our life merely for the sake of living.—Juvenal.

Parallel Thoughts

If we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanse us from all sin.—John 1:7.

For 'tis sweet to stammer one letter of the Eternal's language; on earth it is called forgiveness.—Longfellow.

THE CHIANG KAI-SHEKS

Jean Allan From Dr. R. H. Glover

A revealing glimpse into the home life of General and Madame Chiang-Kai-shek is furnished by a westerner who had occasion to call on them in Chungking on some official business. He was invited to remain for the evening meal. Meanwhile, an air raid alarm sounded and the visitor noted the quiet composure of the couple as all three betook themselves to an adjoining shelter, while bombing planes poured down destruction upon the city, three bombs dropping less than a quarter of a mile away. When the "all clear" signal sounded they returned and dinner was served. The conversation at the table was cheerful and elevating in character. The guest was then about to take leave, but was cordially invited to stay for the customary family devotions.

He writes of how profoundly he was impressed as the General read a Scripture portion and then led in prayer: "I never expect to hear such a prayer again in all my life." The General began with a simple expression of thanks for their personal safety and the courage of the nation under fire. Then he prayed for strength for the men in the field, and for strength, guidance, and wisdom for himself, that he might not fail the people. But the most amazing thing was his plea that God would help him and China not to hate the Japanese people. He prayed for the Japanese Christians and for the suffering multitudes of Japan impoverished by the war. Finally, in the simplest and humblest terms, he laid himself at the service of God, begged that he might know His will, and do it on the morrow.

The visitor went away silently and deeply moved. How many others, the world over, have been impressed by the Christian faith and example of this noble couple whom God has given to China as leaders in these dark days of that nation's unprecedented suffering! Do we praise and pray the Lord for them as we ought?

WHY FRANCE FELL

Harold Nicholson in The Spectator, London.

I have been rereading this week my diary for 1940 and especially those passages which record a visit to France in the spring which seems today some 50 years ago. I returned to London convinced that whatever the feeble fears of the Paris elite, the provinces were united and resolute. It is only in searching my memory that I can unearth slight symptoms of the malady which but a few weeks later drowned the soul of France.

I can detect four symptoms. First, there was the undue reliance upon the Maginot Line, which a young officer who drove me from Lyons to Besancon described as "dangerous and perhaps fatal." Secondly, there was the disgraceful vindictiveness felt by the higher bourgeoisie towards the Popular Front, which was a sign of how far the love of property had corroded the French will. Thirdly, there was the slogan "Il faut en finir," which (had I interpreted it rightly) would have indicated that France was conscious that so great a national effort could not be made a third time. And in the fourth place I heard remarks in clerical circles about "salvation through suffering" which (had I been more astute) would have warned me of the coming of weygangism and the dangerous evasiveness of moral rearmament. I was obtuse at the time to all these symptoms. My eyes were filled by the cool corridors of the eastern redoubts and by pale hands placed upon the switches which moved enormous guns. My ears were deafened by the fervor of the students of Grenoble and by the vast blare of the Marseillaise. France seemed impregnable; I could not have believed that within six short weeks such parapets could be submerged.

PAPER SHORTAGE

AT THE TIMES

From News Week

The paper shortage has caused The Times, London, to cease acknowledging contributions to its famous letter column. But less austere organizations continue to advertise by mail. A lady who inserted a notice in The Times announcing the birth of a child immediately got three letters begging for money, three circulars from vendors of contraceptives, four sample sets of "blessed event" greeting cards, and appeals for funds from a dozen maternity hospitals.

NEW ORDER FOR BRITAIN

A quick improvement of the status of the English working man is expected by Ernest Bevin, Britain's Minister of Labor and member of the Churchill war cabinet, he says in an interview published in the current issue of Who magazine.

The labor leader who inspired workers in the embattled island kingdom to greater production with his famous slogan, "Give 'Em Hell," expects that those workers will be rewarded, after completion of the job, with a new economic system built for the security of workers.

Bevin, who has been mentioned as the next Prime Minister, believes that a new economic system must follow the war. "It is not necessary that all profit or surplus should be eliminated," he said, "but it is essential that our efforts be aimed to give security to the community as a whole and not to a small middle class or to the property holders."

Weygand's Passing Speeds Up Showdown

By ELMORE PHILPOTT

TORONTO—Far from being a bad sign, I regard the removal of Weygand as a hopeful factor as it speeds up the whole process of a showdown in this war. There have been two great clouds in the general war picture in recent months—Japan and Vichy-France. Our relations with the former are much better than they were for the one and only reason that at long last we got tough with the Japanese. We told them in plain blunt words that it was either fight or quit.

Open "collaboration" of Vichy-France with Germany would similarly improve the world picture because we would immediately be able to get tough and take steps which we were unwilling to take while the pretence of neutrality was maintained.

An open break with Vichy-France would, of course, mean many more things than the rupture of consular relations which Canada has so far maintained. It would mean protective custody occupation of French possessions outside Europe, where those possessions are of a nature to be made bases for German action.

TUNISIA KEY POINT

Dakar is, of course, the most outstanding example. But French Tunisia is a key point. There are forces which could be released in French North Africa which might well transform that whole area into a base for operations on the side of the free peoples. We have hitherto been unable to aid those forces adequately because of the all-too-short-sighted regard for the French Empire as such. Chief of these forces is the Pan-Arab movement which looks to the day of freedom for all Arabic peoples. What happened in Syria has not been overlooked by these potentially mighty forces. When the British and Free French were forced to overcome the Vichy-French forces, by military action, they did what Lawrence of Arabia had promised the Arabs to do when he got them to revolt against the Turks.

It is an encouraging thing how the logic of events is forcing us, as this war proceeds, to be true to the ideals to which too long we have paid but lip service.

We now demand hands off China, and China for the Chinese, but it took an imminent threat to our own interests to make us see the point.

We are for Ethiopia for the Ethiopians now, but it cost thousands of lives and hoards of treasure to enable us to redeem our own negligence of a few years before.

We are for hands off Russia now, because Russia's ability to stand is of vital importance to our own war interest.

Experience is a good, if harsh, teacher. What the world is learning, bit by bit, is that an aggression anywhere is an aggression everywhere; and that in the long run the more people who get self-government, freedom and democracy, the safer, more secure and more prosperous are similar systems wherever established.

Letters to the Editor

AGED AND INFIRM

One of the most reliable standards by which to measure the progress of any civilized people is the degree of solicitation and care they manifest for the aged and infirm.

The stigma of pauperism has, thank heaven, been somewhat ameliorated by the conscience-stricken politician whose specious promises have finally shamed him into acknowledging the fundamental truth of the above assertion. But a token payment of $20 a month is not enough to keep body and soul together, let alone provide a roof over their heads, and during these unsettled days of rising prices and demands for increased cost of living bonus, their lot must be pathetic indeed.

The present effort to provide the 1,800 old age pensioners of Greater Victoria with a little extra Christmas cheer is a very worthy cause and should be heartily supported by all.

W. E. G. CRISPORD.

SHE WAS THERE

It would be interesting to know on what Leo Marston bases his version and idea of Franco as being the true one substantiated by fact and all others faked histories.

Was he in Spain, either before, after or during the Mussolini-inspired and financed putsch, and has he ever spoken to the Spanish man or woman in the street?

He might read "In Place of Splendor," by a Spanish woman of unimpeachable standing. A copy of this book is in the Public Library here and I should like to know if, after reading that book, he can still retain his unquestionably Fascist attitude.

We were in Spain in July, 1940, after leaving France via Hendaye just as the Boche troops reached that frontier. We saw the welcome the Spanish officers gave those Nazi gangster hordes, the domineering, possessive-bearing which these Nazi brutes displayed in crossing over into Spain. But we saw no salute on the part of the Spanish soldier. They either turned their backs or disappeared. We spent about a fortnight in Bilbao and the swastika was everywhere. All the war pictures and bulletins were German, and loud-mouthed German civilians and Nazi uniforms all over the place. But the Spanish people said: "Poor France and poor Spain."

The expressions on the faces of these Spanish people, down to the small children, were unspeakably sad, and the ruins to be seen everywhere were explained to us as the result of German bombing. A devout young Catholic woman told us that she, with her children, spent a fortnight with thousands of others in some caves near there and they only ventured out at night to try to find something to eat. She said that the churches during all the duration of the war were open as usual and that priests and nuns went about in their habits as usual. At the beginning of the Spanish affair we met many people who were refugees from Spain and they all were of the same opinion as the author of "In Place of Splendor."

ELIZABETH FIELD.

cases have not been very numerous.

The serum developed by the Illinois health department scientists from the blood of hyperimmune rabbits has given good results in treatment of mice and guinea pigs. Practically all the animals treated in the early stages and about two thirds of those treated in the later stages of the sickness recovered. No human trials are reported, though further studies of the serum are said to be in progress.

Serums for the treatment of other virus-caused diseases have been developed and used before this. In the case of diseases like the horse sleeping sickness, encephalitis, and infantile paralysis, however, no success with serum treatment has been achieved. Scientists have thought this was because in these diseases the virus strikes nerve cells and the serum could not be got into contact with the virus in these cells. Examination of the brains of the treated animals that recovered showed that the virus had been spreading in and damaging the brain but that its progress was checked by the serum. This gives hope that serums can be developed to check the damaging progress of other viruses that invade the brain and nervous system, though, of course, it may be some time before such serums are ready for use if they ever are.

Reason for the success in serum treatment of laboratory animals suffering with equine encephalomyelitis was, the Illinois scientists believe, the fact that a big enough dose was used. Contributing to the success also may be the use of rabbit serum instead of horse serum. The rabbit serum is believed to have smaller antibody (disease-fighting) molecules which probably can penetrate to the infected body tissues more rapidly.

Fluorescent Stars

WYNNEWOOD, Pa.—Six additions to the list by a rare type of star, in which, by a process comparable with that taking place in the fluorescent electric lamps now becoming so popular, the stellar atmosphere absorbs ultraviolet light from within, and re-broadcasts it as visible red light, have been made here at the Cook Observatory of the University of Pennsylvania.

The discovery, announced in the forthcoming issue of the Astrophysical Journal, was made by Dr. Orren Mohler, now a member of the staff of the McMath-Hulbert Observatory of the University of Michigan.

Technically, these are known as "Be" stars. Their spectra, obtained by analyzing their light through a spectroscope, show the typical dark lines, but in addition certain lines, particularly those indicative of hydrogen, are bright. Less than one star in 200, on the average, shows this effect.

These stars are very puzzling. Taken at face value, the bright hydrogen lines would indicate that part of the atmosphere of the star, though exposed to the extremely low temperatures of outer space, is hotter than the interior. This is so improbable that astronomers think the "fluorescence" process takes place. According to this hypothesis, hydrogen atoms take in energy from invisible ultraviolet light radiated from inside the star. As they then give up this energy, a considerable amount of hydrogen light—mostly red—is produced which causes the bright lines in the spectrum.

The Old Age Pensioners of Victoria will meet Tuesday at 2:30 in the lower hall, First Baptist Church, Quadra Street. There will be a social hour with refreshments at close of this meeting.

Oak Bay Council

To Collect Fats, Papers, Not Bones

Supporting the drive sponsored by the Salvage Corps of B.C., the Oak Bay Council, at a meeting on Thursday, approved the plan of the municipal engineer to ask citizens to separate papers and fats from the ordinary garbage and to have them collected whenever the supply warrants it. A circular describing the co-operation asked by the citizens will be sent out with the next water bills.

The council has decided it is not practical to collect bones yet, but fats will be collected for the Army Soap Works. Citizens will be asked to put refuse fats in a tin and when the tin is full to put it with the garbage so it may be collected.

In regard to papers, residents of Oak Bay will be asked to telephone the Salvage Corps when they have a sufficiently large bundle and the corps will call for them. Or, a resident may take the bundle to the municipal yard on Milton Street.

The council ordered that O. G. Hogg be reimbursed at the same rate as former claims for six Leghorn hens and two bantam hens which were killed by dogs.

The council decided to accept the offer of Ralph Barnes, 1899 Foul Bay Road, of $320 for Lot 3, Block 4, on Cadboro Bay Road.

Robert F. Blandy, municipal clerk, was appointed returning officer for the forthcoming municipal election. The council also appointed A. D. Findlay deputy returning officer. The polling place chosen was the municipal council chambers.

NEW TIME FUSE

WASHINGTON (Science Service)—Newest precision clockwork fuse for time shells works on the old-fashioned principle of a grandfather clock, driven by weights instead of a spring. The only difference is that instead of being pulled upon by the force of gravity, they are subjected to the centrifugal force produced by the spinning of the shell as it flies along its trajectory. But the weights do run a clock in the nose of the shell, and when it is time for the clock to strike it goes "bang" instead of "bong."

The device has just been granted United States patent 2228905. It is the invention of Frederick W. Bold of Chelsea, Mass., who has assigned his rights to the Waltham Horological Manufacturing Company.

Largely as a result of need for greater precision in timing the burst of anti-aircraft shell, the old-fashioned powder-train fuse in use up to the time of the first World War have been displaced by compact clockwork trains, that can be turned out on mass-production basis by this country's great timepiece manufacturers. Those in use at present are spring-driven, like watches. This increases their complexity somewhat; also, if fuses with wound-up springs are kept in storage for several years the metal in the springs may undergo changes that will make their action undependable. A springless fuse is therefore highly desirable.

STEEL BALLS USED

In Mr. Bold's fuse, small steel balls are fed by an automatic device into deep teeth or pockets around the rim of a wheel mounted a little off-axis in the pointed nose of the shell. The spin imparted to the shell by the rifling of the gun tends to throw the balls away from the centre, by centrifugal force. As they push toward the outside, they turn the toothed wheel that holds them. At the outermost point in the rotation, each ball finds a small round hole through which it can escape, while another is fed into an empty pocket, back where it started from.

Thus the wheel is kept rotating, and in turn drives the clockwork train to which it is geared. When this reaches the point for which it was set, a strong coiled spring drives a firing pin into the primer and explodes the shell.

Television images bright enough to be projected on a screen are produced on what is really a modern version of the old-fashioned Wellsbach gas mantle, in an invention by Philo T. Farnsworth, president of the Farnsworth Television and Radio Corporation, of Dover, Del. He has issued patent 2228388.

TUBES FORM IMAGE

Usual television tubes form the image with an electron gun which sprays the viewing screen with electrons, making the screen, where it strikes, glow with cold light by the process called fluorescence. In an earlier invention by Mr. Farnsworth, the heating power of the electron beam was used to bring spots on a screen to incandescence. This screen is similar to the gas mantle, except that it has to be an electrical conductor.

The disadvantage of this, he

Lucky we stocked up with the Best

• Popularity begins at home. That's where your friends should see you at your best. And when it comes to the best in ginger ales, one name instantly sparkles in your mind... Canada Dry... the world's most famous beverage... "The Champagne of Ginger Ales."

Canada Dry's famous secret process brings out the full, rich flavour of Jamaica's finest ginger root. Pin-point carbonation makes the drinks you serve stay lively and zesty to the last sip.

You should never be without Canada Dry. Buy the big Family size bottles for parties and the smart Club size bottles for small gatherings and quick convenience.

says, is that the electron gun must be of high power, to produce enough heating where the beam hits. To overcome this, he has now invented an electron amplifier, where a relatively small beam of electrons controls a flow many times greater.

The beam from the electron gun, controlled by the incoming Video signal, is focussed on an insulating screen. This is placed parallel to, and a short distance behind, the glow screen. The insulating screen is flooded from two other electron radiators with large quantities of electrons and these accumulate upon it. At each point where a single electron hits the rear screen, a thousand or more are released from the other side. These are drawn to the glow screen, because of its electrical charge, and it shines brightly in the spot where they fall. With the beam completely covering the whole area many times each second, the spots unite to form a complete picture. So bright is this, says the inventor, that it can be used as a light source from which the picture is projected to a large screen.

The Senior Women's Auxiliary of St. Alban's will hold its annual meeting in the hall Monday. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected and all members and those wishing to become so are urged to be present. Officers are reminded to bring their reports. Afternoon tea will be served.

A.R.P. moving pictures will be shown through the courtesy of the Provincial Police (A.R.P. branch) this evening in the auditorium of the Mount View High School at 8. All wardens under the command of Col. G. B. Scott, and residents in the Burnside, Gorge, Parkdale and Colquitz areas will be welcome. These pictures cover all phases of A.R.P. work as experienced in recent raids in Britain, and are of great educational value.

NANAIMO (CP) — Sheldon Spurr of Nanaimo was elected president of the Vancouver Island Druggists Association at its annual meeting here, succeeding R. S. Lang of Courtenay. George Kelly of Nanaimo succeeded C. W. Burr of Victoria as vice-president and Hugh Anderson of Nanaimo was re-elected secretary-treasurer. The meeting was well attended, especially by delegates from Victoria. The British Columbia Druggists Association was represented by F. H. Fulleton of Van-

Delegations were told that the new retail trades licensing regulations will affect the druggists profession only so far as they handle foodstuffs.

Charles Donald officiated at the ceremony in Southminster United Church at 7.30 in the evening.

The bride wore a draped frock in precious rose tones, with a corsage of Killarney roses and lily of the valley. Her hat was of black velvet, with a point d'esprit veil, and her accessories were in black.

Miss Jean Maxwell, formerly of Vancouver and now of Ottawa, was bridesmaid, wearing a botany wool frock in queen's blue, with a matching turban. Her corsage was of Irene roses.

Capt. Charles L. Ware, R.C.S., formerly of Vancouver, was best man. Later a wedding dinner was held in the grill of Chateau Laurier.

Lieut. and Mrs. Fraser will reside in Pembroke, Ont.

FERRY—CARR

McLeod united in marriage Aileen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Carr, 586 Toronto Street, and Mr. William Rai Ferry, only son of Mrs. E. Ferry, Fort Street, and the late Mr. Ferry. The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a French blue crepe frock with touches of black, wine hat and black accessories. Mr. Murray Bryce, R.C.A.F., was best man.

Relatives and intimate friends were received at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony, bronze, golden and yellow chrysanthemums decorating the

Mrs. Carr welcomed her guests in a tailored green suit with matching accessories and Mrs. Ferry wore a violet-blue ensemble, both hostesses having corsages of pink carnations. Little Sharon Carr, younger sister of the bride, was also in attendance.

Amazing Record By Local Knitter

Many busy needles are clicking these days in the interests of suffering humanity, but few can equal the amazing output of Mrs. G. Bennett of 2808 Prior Street. She is a member of the Hillside unit of the Red Cross and the unit is justifiably proud of her, for, from Oct. 1, 1940, to Nov. 24 of this year she had accomplished the following:

Knitted 4 women's refugee cardigans, 8 soldiers' sleeveless sweaters, 7 pairs socks, 10 pairs seamen's stockings, 7 pairs whole mitts, 13 pairs two-way mitts, 38 amputation covers, 32 steel helmet caps, 1 Balclava helmet, 9 Quebec helmets, 17 aero helmets, 10 W.A.S. helmets, 6 convalescent jackets, 7 pairs W.A.S. long stockings and 2 W.A.S. sweaters, as well as 58 pairs socks altered for Red Cross.

Civic Restaurants Prove Success In England

Communal feeding for those who have been bombed out has been introduced with much success in England, according to a letter received by Mrs. A. F. Bayles of Langford. The writer is Mrs. J. Gilbert of Croydon, near London, whose two sons, Richard, 10, and Philip, 7, have been war guests of Mrs. Bayles since their arrival from England last year. The letter says in part:

"I said that I would tell you something of Croydon's civic restaurants. I do not know whether you have such institutions in Victoria. They are quite new here, and have only originated since the war. I think that Croydon is one of the leading towns in this respect—the 10th restaurant was open last week. We feel very proud of this achievement.

FOR BOMBED-OUT

"The origin of the community feeding scheme in Croydon dates from a letter received from the Ministry of Food in November, 1940, and the main idea was to feed people who had been bombed out of their houses. The authorities have the option of financing their own schemes, or the ministry will carry out all the financial liability. In the case of Croydon, the Ministry of Food have financed all the capital. They choose sites in different parts of the town, and use halls already built or convert several shops for the restaurants and kitchens (the roof of one is made from bombed houses). Croydon's policy has been to purchase such items as meat, vegetables, bread, etc., from the tradesmen in the area of that centre, as it could be argued that since a large proportion of the local inhabitants are obtaining their food from the restaurants, the local shopkeepers naturally will not be selling as much produce to the inhabitants in that district.

"All the restaurants are run on the same lines, with identical fittings and equipment. There are small tables for four people, covered with linoleum, which is easily kept clean, the halls are well lit and cheerful, and the kitchens are the last word in cleanliness and efficiency. All labor-saving devices are used such as potato scrubbers, vegetable slicers, meat slicers, coffee and tea makers, etc. The cooking is done by electricity, with solid fuel cookers to be used in an emergency. The washing up is done in a machine which thoroughly cleans and sterilizes every item; in fact, I doubt whether there are many restaurants in the country which could compete with such a well-ordered organization.

MEALS ARE CHEAP

"I am not quoting these figures from actual experience. Last Sunday I was very kindly conducted by the manager round three of these civic restaurants and shown all the details. We ended up by having our Sunday dinner in one, and very nice it was, too. It is served on the cafeteria principle. You buy your ticket at the desks, present it at the counter, collecting a tray and cutlery on the way. You then take your meat and sweet and eat it at any table. The menu for Sunday was roast beef, Yorkshire pudding, greens, marrow with sauce, baked and boiled potatoes, gravy, apple flan and custard and bread. I had a cup of tea after, and the total cost was 9½d (19 cents). They are ample portions and nicely cooked and served.

"I was very interested in the different types of people in the various restaurants, they were so typical of the locality in which it was situated.

"One was patronized mostly by shoppers and office workers, another by factory workers in their overalls, and at every restaurant there is an outside service, where you can bring your own container and take home a cooked dinner, piping hot, with no trouble of cooking.

SEVEN MEALS A MINUTE

"The restaurants pay their way, even with such low prices. The staff in each restaurant consists of 13 to 15 helpers, working in two shifts: 8 a.m. to 4.30 p.m. and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. An average of 22,000 meals a week are served in the eight restaurants. Seven meals a minute at the peak hours can be coped with. The cost of equipping each restaurant has been about £2,000. This is with-

"Besides these civic restaurants running now, Croydon has 25 schools equipped for emergency feeding.

"To me, it is a comforting thought that if we have more blitzes, which is quite likely, we have somewhere to go to, where we shall be well fed at very little cost. I believe it is a fact that before the setting up of these communal feeding centres, if a town was badly blitzed, the men did not go to work the next day, mainly because they were trying to obtain food for their families, and so hindering the war effort quite a bit. The general opinion is that rationing will get so tight this winter we shall all be forced to patronize these civic restaurants.

Blindcraft Sale Attracts Crowds

A happy boom to early Christmas shoppers who, with each purchase, are also contributing cheer to the lives of those who live in eternal darkness, is the sale of work made by the blind in Victoria, in Spencer's Boys' Department, Government Street.

The sale and display, which has been running all week, has been arranged by the Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Institute for the Blind, and all proceeds are turned over to the workers themselves. An astonishing variety of useful articles is offered to the public, including wicker chairs, tables and baskets, woven bags, belts in gay colors, hearth and garden whisks, and an attractive collection of leatherwork and carpentry.

Official reports show a splendid response has been given by the public since the sale opened Monday, and it is hoped to sell out the remaining stock before Saturday.

The ingenuity and perseverance of the blind craftsmen who have produced such lovely articles amaze visitors to Spencer's counter. Attracting particular attention is an all-wool afghan knitted by Mrs. John McKenzie, who is blind and deaf. It is not for sale, but is being exhibited in the window prior to sending overseas as a gift to air raid victims from one who knows what suffering means. The white walking sticks, given by the institute to all those who are blind, are displayed so that the public will recognize them and show consideration to sightless people on the streets.

First United Evening W.A. met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. R. D. Matthews. The president, Mrs. Matthews, conducted the business period and Mrs. G. Gordon led the devotional. Mrs. Thomas and Miss Helen Porter were in charge of the program. Mr. H. B. Sargison gave an interesting history of early days in Victoria and showed several slides and pictures of that time, assisted by Mr. A. S. Huxtable. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Walker, Richmond Road, Nov. 19 and will take the form of a Christmas party.

The Women's Auxiliary to the B.C. Channel Islands Society met Wednesday at the Women's Institute Rooms, Mrs. Mugford presiding. The members inspected donations of clothing, making another case for shipping. Many donations of clothing, blankets and wool have been gratefully received, and the members have been active in making children's pyjamas, skirts, pants, sweaters, socks and mitts. During the past month 220 pounds of new and used clothing and blankets have been forwarded to headquarters in Vancouver for shipment to England. The annual meeting and election of officers will take place at the next meeting, Dec. 10.

600 Attend Opening Of Jubilee Hospital Wing

Before a crowd of 600 interested spectators, Thursday, Lieutenant Governor Woodward cut the red, white and blue ribbon barring the main entrance into the new wing of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, and officially declared open the handsome $150,000 addition to Victoria's oldest medical institution.

His Honor, accompanied by Mrs. W. C. Woodward, and Col. Mrs. W. C. Woodward, and Lieut. Col. H. Allan, as aide, were met at 3 p.m., by Alderman John Worthington, chairman of the board of directors; Dr. T. W. Walker, superintendent; Miss Lena Mitchell, superintendent of nurses; and members of the board. Through a "guard of honor" of nurses in their smart white uniforms with navy capes, they were conducted to the superintendent's office, where they signed the visitors' book, and Mrs. Woodward was presented with a corsage of gardenias. They then proceeded to the new wing for the dedication ceremonies.

"We are doubly honored today," said Mr. Worthington, "on the opening of this beautiful new building and on the occasion of His Honor's first visit to the hospital." He stressed the multitudinous difficulties confronted in erecting the structure and pointed to the "careless thought" of our past president, Mr. Edwin Tomlin, as the leading motive power behind the project. He praised the kitchen facilities incorporated in the new wing as "the finest I have seen up and down the Pacific Coast," and in commenting on the expanded accommodation and facilities, bed capacity in the institution now being 450, recalled the founding of the first tiny hospital 43 years ago which contained two cots. In conclusion, he paid tribute to the diligence and co-operation of Mr. E. W. McMullen, the provincial government, city and municipal agencies, and the generous response of the public.

His Honor expressed pride in the new addition of "one of the oldest hospitals in B.C." and commended the board of management and municipalities for their industry.

With bowed heads the crowd heard the benediction of Rt. Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Bishop of Columbia; who, hand upraised, pronounced: "May we be enabled by our deeds and gifts to alleviate and heal sickness and suffering, and to forward the purposes of love; for the sake of Him Who gave Himself in the service of mankind, even Jesus Christ our Saviour. Amen."

Ejaculations of astonishment and praise swept over the crowd as it surged through the newly-painted, bright, airy rooms of the new central block. Women, with a critical housekeeper's eye, enthused over the enormous kitchen "gadgets," a giant egg beater, huge steam cookers, racks for cooking, and electrically heated food wagons for serving hot meals to patients anywhere in the hospital.

MANY NEW FACILITIES
Chief components of the new wing are the main kitchen, special diet kitchen, dietetic offices, staff dining-rooms and nurses' kitchen and dining-rooms on the second floor, all immaculately clean and well ventilated, eliminating the possibility of food smells permeating the wards; centralized business and records offices and emergency treatment rooms at the ground floor; children's medical, surgery wards and nursery on the third floor; and on the fourth, maternity cases.

Conducting the crowds through the building were members of the St. John Ambulance Women's Auxiliary, a volunteer V.A.D. unit, under the direction of Mrs. W. P. D. Pemberton, in smart white and blue uniforms with blue veils. Following inspection tea was served in the main dining-room. Among the special guests were Mayor Andrew McGavin and Mrs. McGavin, R. W. Mayhew, M.P., and Mrs. Mayhew; Bishop and Mrs. Sexton; Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Stevens, members of the hospital board, city and municipal councils and supporting organizations, and their wives.

Another distinguished guest was J. Stuart Yates, the only remaining member of the original hospital board 50 years ago. Members of the senior and Junior Women's Auxiliaries and other nursing units assisted in serving.

Hull Studies Latest Moves

U.S. Reshapes Policy Toward Vichy France

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Cordell Hull began today a sweeping re-examination of United States policy toward Vichy France.

The attitude toward the Vichy government will be determined, Mr. Hull has made clear, by its reaction to Nazi attempts "to take over by force or threat of force the sovereignty and control of the French empire."

The state department announced Nov. 20 the United States would "review" its policy toward France in the light of developments which seemed to fore-shadow complete Franco-German collaboration. The announcement cited as an example the removal "at the express demand of Hitler" of Gen. Maxime Weygand, Vichy's pro-consul in north Africa.

Since the date of that announcement, however, further evidence of closer collaboration has failed to materialize. On the contrary, a scheduled meeting of Chief of State Petain and a high Nazi official did not come off, and there have been reports the marshal was balking at yielding to the Reich's latest demands. Major questions to be restudied by Hull were said to include future policy toward French colonies in the western hemisphere; toward French ships tied up in United States ports, and toward permitting further withdrawals from France's $1,500,000,000 in frozen assets here.

Also involved is the disposition of French requests for food shipments to help feed the population of the unoccupied zone and French prisoners of war in Germany.

Pro Patria W.A. will hold a card party in the V.W.I. Rooms tonight at 8. Good prizes, refreshments.

Plane Missing In Nova-Scotia

HALIFAX (CP)—One plane of a group of three single-engine aircraft which became lost in bad weather Thursday afternoon on a flight from western Canada to the R.C.A.F. base at nearby Dartmouth, N.S., still is missing, the R.C.A.F. announced here today.

Two other planes made forced landings and their crews were not injured, the R.C.A.F. said. One of the planes came down at East Peteswick, a coastal hamlet 20 miles east of Halifax. The second landed in the vicinity of Liverpool, 70 miles west of Halifax and almost 100 miles from the spot where the other plane came down.

By PETE SALLAWAY

ALTHOUGH his club is started off on its campaign in the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey League, manager Ivan Temple of the Bapcos is still having player troubles. His latest worry is Johnny Smith, former member of the Nelson Maple Leafs, who was scheduled to hit town last Monday and don his togs for the Victoria club. After waiting for several days, Temple learned Smith had arrived on the coast, but was making a trip around the circuit, apparently looking over prospects in the various towns.

After interviewing Vancouver Norwans Smith hopped over to Nanaimo to talk business with the Nanaimo Clippers. It was in the latter town that Temple finally located Smith on the long distance telephone. But the Nelson boy was not in any mood to discuss hockey playing in Victoria, and refused to come here to talk matters over. Then the usually cool-headed Temple "blew his top," as the saying goes, and decided to get tough with the wandering Smith.

A wire was immediately dispatched by the Victoria manager to A. S. Aitken, Nelson, secretary of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association, claiming the services of Smith for this season. Temple still remembers how the Bapcos were forced to relinquish the services of goalie Jesse Seaby to Moose Jaw Millers through the latter club having a prior claim. "We have first call on Smith and I certainly hope the powers that be uphold our rights the same as they did for Moose Jaw," Temple said.

Second home appearance of the Bapcos tonight against Nanaimo Clippers will take place before another "sell-out" house. Tickets have been going like hot-dogs at a circus. And we feel sure the fans will see a much-improved Victoria squad in action. All week the boys have been going through stiff drills and their combination, defensive work and all-around playing has been greatly smoothed out. The boys are really starting to hit their true hockey stride and the other three clubs in the circuit are in for a rough passage.

Tomorrow's game holds added interest in view of the keen sports rivalry that has always existed between Victoria and Nanaimo. We have seen it on the baseball and soccer fields and hockey will prove no exception. We know that Bill Phillips, playing manager of the Clippers, wants to whip Bapcos badly, while manager Temple has his heart set on a Victoria victory. The Bapcos players will receive instructions to "get out there and win and no alibis."

Chatting to Ab Lindsay, Rotary president, after Wednesday's interclub golf match at Oak Bay between the Rotarians and Kiwanians, we heard one of the funniest stories in years. It appears the fog was so thick the players had about 25 yards' vision late in the afternoon. "I drove off the 16th tee and, on finding my ball, was all set to play my second when the caddy hollered at me to stop," Lindsay said. "On asking him, the boy told me I was playing back to the tee. To tell you the truth I thought he was nuts, but followed his advice and sure enough I was right as, when I found my ball, it was resting on the green. When our foursome was on the 17th tee there were other fours on the 16th and 18th. After we had all played there were 16 balls on the same fairway within a 25-foot radius. And one four-some lost one of its players and located him wandering around on another fairway. Boy, that was some fog."

While the big boys in blue are going through their paces under the watchful and discerning eyes of Coaches Roy McKay and Don Douglas, the Alumni gridders are also grimly preparing for the battle. Actually, the Blue Devils have more to win by a victory Saturday as it would clinch second place in the league standing for them, while Alumni will not shift from the top spot, win or lose or draw.

Saturday's game does not mean the end of the game here this season, however, for the playoffs are carded for December 6 and 13. NEW YORK (AP)—Those funny fistie fellows, better known as the middleweight mess, go from the ridiculous to the sublime tonight when sailor boy George Abrams and steelworker Tony Zale decide who's going to be the 160-pound boss.

When they finish their 15-round roughhouse in Madison Square Garden, the middleweight division will have an undisputed ruler for the first time since Mickey Walker was the No. 1 boy 11 years or so ago. Since then, there have been many kinds of 160-pound rulers. The division has been kicked around between the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission, with the International Boxing Union tossing in an occasional boot from overseas. ## New York Rangers Rookies

Alumni Battle Devils Tomorrow

Rugged line plays with driving action aplenty and surprise backfield tactics that baffled both players and fans are the order at every practice these nights as Oak Bay Blue Devils prepare to meet the V.H.S. Alumni squad Saturday at 2.30 at Macdonald Park, in the last game of the Victoria Canadian rugby football schedule.

While the big boys in blue are going through their paces under the watchful and discerning eyes of Coaches Roy McKay and Don Douglas, the Alumni gridders are also grimly preparing for the battle.

Actually, the Blue Devils have more to win by a victory Saturday as it would clinch second place in the league standing for them, while Alumni will not shift from the top spot, win or lose or draw.

Hockey Game Tonight

Bapcos Get Smith

Decks were cleared for a lot of hockey action at the Willows Arena tonight when Victoria Bapcos engage Nanaimo Clippers in a Pacific Coast Amateur League fixture. Referee Ed Battell will face the puck at 8.30.

From the advance sale of tickets another full house is assured. Manager Ivan Temple of the Bapcos announced his starting line-up today as follows: Goal, Laurel Harney; defencemen, Hugh Sutherland, Walter McIntyre and Leo Attwell; forwards, Jack Kilpatrick, Bus Algar, Al Huerby, Les Bird, Shadow Elmer, Norm LaCree and Eddie Scott.

Scott will be making his first appearance with the Bapcos and has earned the starting berth on the strength of much improved form shown in workouts this week.

Manager Temple was all smiles today following the ruling announced by British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association officials at Nelson and Trail that Johnny Smith must report to the local club. Smith is a former defenceman with Nelson Maple Leafs.

The ruling was made by A. W. (Gus) McDonald, president, of Trail, and A. S. (Pat) Aitken, secretary-treasurer, of Nelson, after a wire was received from the Bapcos claiming the services of Smith, who had agreed to go to Victoria.

Aitken, in announcing the ruling, said that the B.C. body was upholding the principle of the C.A.H.A. There had been an unprecedented number of cases this year of the C.A.H.A. compelling players to report to clubs which they had given to understand that they would play for them.

"When a team gets word from a player that he will accept its offer, it makes its arrangements accordingly," Aitken explained. "It doesn't matter whether he has signed a playing card with the team or not, if he says he will go, then he has to."

Don Grosso picked up three points in Detroit's victory against Chicago to move into a third-place deadlock with Boston's boy Conacher, who came through with a goal and assist at the expense of Brooklyn last night. Five others are tied in fourth spot with nine points each.

GET PASSPORTS
NEW YORK (CP)—Charlie Rayner, goalie, and Bus Wycheley, forward, western Canadian players who broke in last year with Brooklyn Americans of the National Hockey League, have obtained their Canadian passports and joined Eddie Shore's Springfield Indians of the American League, it was announced Thursday.

There has been talk this week of Winnipeg's professional pass play and the greater advantage Bombers take of the expanded blocking rules. Western supporters figure they can take Riders principally on the strength of this style, familiar on the prairies but almost unknown in the east.

OTTAWA (CP)—A power-laden Ottawa Rough Rider football force which restricted its eastern Rugby Football Union opponents to an average of 3.5 points a game takes its final stand tomorrow against a new offensive threat—Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Boston Captures Wild Game From Amerks

Two Fights Witnessed, Dutton Fined

Boston Bruins are leading the National Hockey League today, with the fact Toronto Maple Leafs have them tied in points for the leadership well overbalanced by other records.

Bruins moved up with the Leafs by trouncing Brooklyn Americans 6 to 2 in overtime in New York Thursday night, while Detroit Red Wings flattened the fading Chicago Black Hawks 4 to 1. Although tied in points, Boston has a wide edge on Leafs in the goals for and against comparisons and seems headed for the lofty position the Boston club occupied most of last year—a prominence that ended in Bruins winning the Stanley Cup.

Boston's 30 goals in eight games is two better than the Leafs' record, and Frankie Brimek's goalkeeping count of 22 goals against is the best in the league.

The Chicago loss left Hawks in third place, one point behind the leaders. Rangers are fourth, Americans fifth, tied with Detroit, and Canadiens last.

Bobby Bauer broke the 2 to 2 deadlock in the Boston-Brooklyn game after 62 seconds of the overtime period, and Bruins waited home from there. Amerks took chances to try to equalize, but instead Jack Crawford, Roy Conacher and Red Hamill whipped in three goals to make the rout complete. Fred Thurrier counted both Brooklyn goals, one in the first period to open the scoring and the second in the third after goals by Bill Cowley and Bauer had sent Bruins into the lead.

TWO FIGHTS SEEN
The game, a grudge match featured by two fist fights in the second period, cost manager Red Dutton of the Americans an automatic fine of $100 in the third period when he dashed headlong on the ice to protest a decision by linesman Fred Stevenson.

At Detroit Johnny Mariucci scored Chicago's only goal in the last minute of the first period. Syd Abel evened the score in the second period. Gus Giesbrecht sent Wings ahead before the end of the period. Don Grosso and Pat McCreavy counted in the third to end the scoring.

CANADIENS AFTER THREE AMATEURS

MONTREAL (CP)—Chances that Montreal Canadiens are going to get the Buddy O'Connor-Gerry Heffernan-Pete Morin line of Montreal Royals appeared bright today, although the contract papers remained unsigned.

Business Manager Frank Patrick and other Canadian officials had hoped to sign the famous "razzle-dazzle" line, backbone of the Quebec Senior Hockey League entry, Thursday night, but the boys decided after a conference lasting more than an hour they would sleep on it and give their decision today.

Club officials said after the conference they were "very hopeful" all three players would be in Canadian uniforms against Boston Bruins Saturday night, to bolster a team hard hit by injuries to key players.

Baseball Trade Talk

Dodgers in Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Some real dynamite in the shape of inter-league trading is ready for a fuse when the baseball bartering gets home at the winter meeting in Jacksonville, Fla., next week.

Possibility of swaps between clubs of the National and American Leagues was opened by President Larry MacPhail of Brooklyn Dodgers with the revelation that he had been obtained on several of his outstanding players.

He did not name the players, but it was learned that one of them is first baseman Dolph Camilli, the home run king and most valuable player in the senior circuit.

All American League clubs also are understood to have waived on Jimmy Fox, veteran first baseman of Boston Red Sox, and there are undoubtedly many more headlines in both big leagues who have not been claimed by rival clubs and who could be traded at will in either league this winter.

INTERVIEWS MACK

Fox is believed to be on the block and has had several conferences with his old boss, Connie Mack of Philadelphia Athletics, this fall.

In spite of the high honors he earned last season, Camilli also is fodder for trade talk. He has not been dear to MacPhail's heart since they became involved in a vitriolic holdout controversy two years ago and there are good grounds for believing MacPhail did not consider Camilli as valuable to the pennant fight as did baseball writers.

In an open discussion of his plans for the National League champions, MacPhail told newspapermen:

"I do not believe the club that played the New York Yankees last month could win the pennant in the National League next year. My manager agrees with me."

"I have submitted to the other National League clubs a list of 10 or 12 players whom I do not consider essential in our plans for the future and already every one of the seven other clubs has shown interest in some of these players."

Start Cheer Fund For Old Pensioners

At a special meeting of the Old Age Pensioners' Association in the City Hall Thursday afternoon ways and means were considered to promote a Christmas cheer fund for all old age pensioners in Greater Victoria.

Many prominent persons in Victoria have expressed their sympathy and willingness to support this cause and this appeal to the public affords an opportunity, especially at this season of the year, to remember the old age pensioner.

Contributions to this fund may be mailed or handed in by envelope addressed to the Old Age Pensioners' Christmas Cheer Fund, Collectors' Department,

City Hall, where arrangements have been made for the receipt of all contributions, or at the Times office.

OTTAWA (CP)—Postmaster-General Mulock today announced approval of a 5 per cent cost of living bonus to 11,000 postmasters of revenue post offices who are paid on a commission basis.

Payment of the bonus will be effective from Oct. 1 and the amount involved will approximate $287,000.

Postmasters of staffs of semi-staff revenue post offices and sub-postmasters are not included. The lifetime of this Parliament has been memorable for the strengthening of the already close ties between my government and—King George VI of Britain, the peoples of the United States.

Salaries Pegged By Wartime Order

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Bailey announced today the Canadian government has approved a wartime salaries order providing that no employer shall increase the rate of salary paid to an official above the most recent rate established and payable on or before Nov. 6.

Salaries were defined to include bonuses and all other forms of income received from the employer. The order will stabilize managerial, executive and other provisions of this order will require an adjustment and probably a cancellation of any increases in salaries which have gone into effect since Nov. 6, the minister said.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS
Special provisions are made for dealing with the promotions of salaried officials, and such promotions must ultimately obtain the approval of the Minister of National Revenue, the statement said.

For promotions where the total salary rate after the promotion is $7,500 a year or more, approval must be obtained before any increase can be put into effect.

The order applies to all employees other than Dominion, provincial and municipal government and their agencies.

3 A.M. Meeting With Lord Haw-Haw

By PRESTON GROVER

BERLIN (AP) — I have met Lord Haw Haw.

He is that almost fabulous Englishman who by his own assertion perpetrates "high treason" daily against England by broadcasting from German stations with intent to disturb British self-assurance.

He is blond, ruddy-faced, short, William Joyce, former Mosleyite, who was a prime mover for National Socialism in England until August, 1939. Then, as it became evident war was about to break out, he and his wife hastily packed a few bags and dashed away to Germany. They had become sold on Nazism and on Hitler as its world exponent.

Now several times an evening Lord Haw Haw reports the war in 15-minute broadcasts for English listeners. He ribs British patriotism, and sardonically ridicules British claims of victories. He urges the inevitability of Nazi victory with a half-cajoling, half-ironic voice as British as Trafalgar Square.

MEET BY ACCIDENT

We met quite by accident at 3.30 a.m. in the half-darkened hallway of the German Propaganda Ministry. The foreign press had been invited to tour the city to see the effects of a British bomb raid. Joyce was going along, too.

"That's Lord Haw Haw," whispered one of the party to me. In no time we were talking. He is decidedly short—perhaps 5 feet 4 inches—and tightly knit physically.

His voice was unmistakable. On the air he uses no name whatever. In Germany he has adopted the name of Froelich.

He grinned when I suggested he was far better known in England than in Germany.

WILLIAM JOYCE, Lord Haw-Haw, N.Y., rector of the American Episcopal Church in Rome, is being held under arrest by Italian police on charges of espionage.

He was casual and friendly. From time to time he strolled over to my side to help me understand the flood of German that periodically overwhelmed my limited vocabulary.

A day or so later he sent me a book in English he has just published in Germany. Called "Twilight Over England," it tells his views of why England has come to such a pass. She ought to have become National Socialist, Joyce writes.

NATIVE OF NEW YORK

"I was born in New York in 1906," Joyce wrote. My father's people had lived in Ireland since the Norman conquest. From my mother I inherited English, Irish and Scottish blood.

"I went to school in Ireland. From my earliest days I was taught to love England and her empire. Patriotism was the highest virtue that I knew."

Joyce joined the British Fascists when he was 17. He saw a "certain amount of street and hall fighting against the Communists, of which I shall carry the marks so long as I live." He has a scar across his right cheek. In 1933 Joyce joined Mosley's new British Union of Fascists and instilled in it, he said, a definite anti-Jewish policy.

He broke with Mosley in 1937 "over organizational matters," and formed a movement of his own. To the Jews and financiers he laid most of England's troubles. British patriotism, he said, ever neglected the English poor. Two times in the year before the war he was arrested, and later acquitted of charges of assault and disturbing the peace.

Then, as the country moved toward war, he prepared to leave. He felt that if, "for perfect reasons of conscience, I could not fight for her (England), I must give her up forever."

TAX REFUGEES RETURN TO CANADA

From Financial Post

Certain names that disappeared from Canadian tax records a few years ago are back on the rolls. And there are likely to be more as time goes on.

Refugees from Canadian taxes are now refugees from something worse—the Hitler threat—to freedom.

Wealthy ex-Canadians, who found high taxes in Canada unpalatable, but who have been forced to return home because of war conditions in their tax-free havens, find that their temporary sojourn abroad has accomplished but little. Some of them find themselves in a much worse fix than when they lived in Canada before, as their assets are now tied up by various exchange regulations.

Likewise those in England, or those who have returned of late, who were using a technicality to avoid government control over their wealth, have found themselves lately in the same class as those subject to regulation.

The Foreign Exchange Control Board and the Bank of England have co-ordinated their efforts more closely than ever before, with the result that those Canadians find that, in effect, control of their holdings rests with the government.

Until the last few weeks the matter of returning wealthy Canadians was of no particular moment. But the developments in Europe caused many to seek a safer haven in their homeland. Then it was remembered that a number of them had left the country to avoid heavy taxation.

MANY LEFT COUNTRY

Among Canadians who figured in public discussion at a time when wealthy men were leaving this country for retirement in comparatively tax-free lands, the most prominent name was that of W. A. Black, former president of Ogilvie Flour Mills and a director or officer of a host of other Canadian companies. He was one of Canada's wealthiest men. He retired to the Channel Islands where the income tax is relatively negligible. Recently he returned to Canada, when the Nazis took over the Channel Islands.

Sir Harry Oakes, Toronto mining millionaire, gave up Canadian residence to live at Nassau. He still lives there. The Nazis have not reached the Bahamas.

Stuart Strathay of Toronto retired to Guernsey three years ago and of late has returned to Toronto. Mr. Strathay was formerly Ontario Supervisor of the Royal Bank of Canada and before that general manager of the Traders Bank.

A number of other Canadians left for the Channel Islands and the Bahamas either to escape the high taxes of Canada or for other reasons. Some have returned. More are expected.

ASSUME NEW IMPORTANCE

Many of these Canadians away-from-home possess considerable wealth. In view of the restrictions placed upon capital not only in this but in other parts of the Empire, as well as the sharp increase in taxes, there has been considerable interest as to their standing.

Nazis Reveal 'Master People' Secret

By WALLACE R. DEUEL
New York Post Special
BERLIN—Are the Germans a "master people"—a superior race, a nation of rulers?

What are the characteristics of a "master people?" The more countries the Reich conquers, the more practical these questions seem to the Nazis and the more they are discussed here. In most of the discussions, it is taken for granted that the Germans are indeed a master people and the only important question is how the Germans can best demonstrate this fact.

A new contribution to the problem in the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, however, goes into these questions with considerable care. Serious German thinkers have raised doubts in the past as to whether the Germans are capable of being a master people, this article reports. Some have even asserted that the Germans are incapable of playing the part of a master people.

MUST BE TAUGHT

The Germans know how to obey, those doubters have said, according to the newspaper, but they do not know how to command and therefore they are not suited to the part of a master people. Most of the greatest Germans, furthermore, have been poets, writers, composers, painters and scientists, but not rulers, the doubters have contended.

It is, in fact, necessary to educate Germans to the role of masters. They are not, it appears, born with the required qualities. But poets and their creative intellects are not masters by nature in any country, the article goes on. And, besides, German history bristles with many examples of master types, not just a few princes and other individual examples, but a whole class—the former nobility.

This ruling class of master types was developed in two principal ways, the article points out—in the officers' corps and in the exclusive dueling clubs and universities. The result was that the ruling class tended to be remote from the masses.

A NEW MASTER TYPE

The ethics of the soldiers may be adapted to civil life but the life-forms can be taken over by civilians only to a very limited extent. The student corps, furthermore, drew its members from an aristocratic caste based on wealth, family and snobishness.

The Nazi Party, however, is now developing a new master type according to the newspaper, a type drawn from the masses and trained by the "leadership principle."

But what is a master type? "One of the qualities of the master is self-control," the article says. "It is true that the master can forget himself, but the very form of this expression betrays the fact that the master in that moment was not conscious of his obligations."

"It is further characteristic of the master that he can bear responsibility and indeed that he gladly and unquestioningly accepts it in the sphere of his duties."

"To the quality of the master, there also belongs the characteristic of keeping his distance from others of a different nature, that is, in the case of a master people from other peoples."

CONFIDENCE OF MASTER

"This grows out of a natural self-assurance that is so confident of its own character that it neither ostentatiously emphasizes itself by a too obvious parading of its own qualities, nor degenerates into assiduous and unrestrained imitations of the alien. Precisely here, in reserve—as remote from furtiveness as from noisy self-assertion—is demonstrated the assured self-confidence of the master."

"But perhaps the most important quality of the master is even harder to grasp. Perhaps it lies precisely in precisely the qualities which we have cited in describing him."

"Unconcerned, natural, unaffected and self-assured is the character of the master and self-assurance is the magic sign which he wears on his brow."

"His character is summed up in this self-assurance. It gives him . . . that watchful awareness of measure and moderation, out of which the natural bearing grows which is so filled with living force. But it not only reveals itself coming from the inner personality in an outward manifestation, but also, at the same time, communicates something of this form to other persons."

AFTER THE VICTORY PARADE

"For only from within can mastery come, and in no way by outward gestures which may be learned (as was partly the case among the students' corps) when the living Prussian traditions begin to revivify among them, and never by copying the way of the master clears his throat and spits."

"Thus the world is formed and shaped by a master people because it is looked upon by other people, consciously or unconsciously, and perhaps even as a result of a hostile aversion to the superior people, the higher race."

It is possible to indicate still other characteristics of the master—not least that his right to the status is much more easily perceived in his attitude toward women than in his bearing toward inferiors . . .

"We Germans are faced with the task of proving ourselves a master people and to show our soldiers, after the victory parade, that we are called to the leadership of a new Europe—unless the conception of the master peoples gives way to entirely different values."

MUST HAVE SPACE
"Not the least reason why a clarification of this question is still necessary today is that a people can only develop the qualities of a master people—even if they slumber concealed in its highest nature—if they are not confined in a narrow space and are not cut off from the goods of the world."

"To the status of the master people, there certainly belongs, besides superiority, a unity on the vital questions of existence and permanence, a material basis and tradition, and here later generations will be able to solve, with greater assurance, what the harder present promises them, through will and discipline."

In these days we can go to theatres to see plays of one kind or another. In theatres where "stage plays" are given, living persons stand before the audience and talk.

More common are moving-picture theatres. In these we see pictures on the screen and hear the voices of people, also the sounds of motor cars, telephones, storms and so on. That is a bit of "magic" brought about by inventions of the past half-century.

Whatever theatres we go to, it is almost certain that a roof will cover us. St. Louis has a large "open-air theatre" and a few other cities have theatres of that type, but the common custom is to give roofs to the audience.

That was not the custom in ancient times. The Greeks and the Romans had open-air theatres, with no roofs for the audience. When there was rain, the people either left their seats and went home, or stayed and got wet.

Usually the seats were placed on the side of a hill. This made it possible for persons in the back to see above the heads of those in front.

Three large theatres with stone seats were built in Rome. The smallest of these had seating space for 8,000 persons. The largest could seat at least 17,000 people.

Actors in Roman plays were all men, except for women who sometimes danced between the acts. When there was a woman's part in the play itself, a man put on a wig and whatever else was needed for disguise.

The old Greek custom of wearing masks was adopted by Roman actors. The masks were made of cloth, leather or wood. They were painted with a face of one kind or another. The audience could not tell whether an actor was smiling or looking sad behind his mask.

There were theatres all over Italy, and on the island of Sicily as well. Provinces of the Roman Empire also had theatres. I saw the seats of a fine open-air theatre near the city of Syracuse, when I was paying a visit to Sicily.

Most of those who went to Roman theatres were men. There were seats for women, but these were in the back rows. At some comedies, women were not allowed to be present in the audience.

NOVEMBER 29

Adverse aspects are in the ascendant today. Certain plans may meet with reversals or defeat. There may be news of accidents. Extravagance may cause trouble.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of an eventful year. Children born on this day may be adventurous and resourceful.

TEA NETS $118

As the result of the silver tea and sale held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chas. Hopper, Gordon Head Road, the handsome sum of $118 was raised for the Red Cross work. The tea table was centred with a red cross formed of white chrysanthemums and scarlet penstemon.

DEAR MISS DIX—My problem is with my daughter. She was away at college for four years, made the highest grades, won most of the honors and was president of the finest national social sorority. We are people in moderate circumstances. We are not rich, but we have had a good life. Now, the matter here is big sacrifice we had to make to get it. Now she is back home and has a very good job, but she is so disagreeable that she is almost impossible to live with. She is so arrogant she cannot be reasoned with at all. She has a contempt for her family and considers her parents practically morons. She resents any suggestion. She has a bitter, sarcastic tongue, bosses the whole family and is most insulting to all of us, with me the main object of her insults. She finds fault with everything I do and may say, if I then say, "I am tired," she will scream: "Don't pass me when I ask her if she speaks as rudely to the office force as she does to the members of her own family, she says that she is getting paid down there. It is true we do not pay her, but we give her her living in our home free of charge, and I paid with my life's blood and hours of anxiety and sleepless nights bearing and rearing her. My husband and I have tried not only to be good parents but wise ones. We have made a comfortable, happy, peaceful home for our children, given them all reasonable liberty, and they have repaid us with affection and appreciation. All except this girl. What can we do about her?"

BEWILDERED MOTHER.

Answer: Going to college seems to upset many girls. Somehow it inflates their ego and gives them an undue opinion of their own importance. They feel that they know all the answers and that wisdom will perish with them, and in especial are they scornful of the attainments, beliefs, habits, tastes and opinions of their own families.

All of us have seen many sweet, simple little girls who obeyed their parents, loved God and respected the conventions when they went off to college, come back scorning their mothers and fathers, deriding their religion, shouting Communist theories, and converts to free love.

Red Cross Corps Is Busy Throughout Province

Mrs. D. Jarvis, Victoria, assistant provincial commandant of the Red Cross Corps, B.C. Division, has just completed a tour of inspection of the seven detachments of the Red Cross Corps in the Okanagan Valley. In three weeks she has visited Penticton, Oliver, Kamloops, Kelowna, Vernon, Revelstoke and New Westminster.

Calling at Provincial Red Cross Headquarters, Vancouver, Tuesday, en route to her home in Victoria, Mrs. Jarvis reported on the activities of the seven detachments which are actively co-operating where needed in local Red Cross branches," she said.

At each place visited Mrs. Jarvis outlined the history of the Red Cross, stressing the fundamental principle of its volunteer service to alleviate suffering in all great emergencies. She explained in detail the duties and organization of detachments of the corps—each having four sections—nursing, food, administration, office administration and transport. She described the uniform and various insignia.

FIRST UNIFORMS

Highlighting Red Cross Corps work at each point of call, Mrs. Jarvis told about the Oliver detachment with 30 members. Although this is the newest one, members will be the first in the province to wear the smart grey serge uniforms. Mrs. Jarvis said that this detachment is very "keen" and that the town of Oliver was the most co-operative place she had ever visited.

Vernon has the largest detachment, there being 73 members. While operating under the B.C. W.S.C., the detachment was formerly responsible for the carrying on of the "Dig Out." The local Red Cross branch has taken over that responsibility but the Red Cross Corps will carry on the management in conjunction with an advisory committee of the local Red Cross.

The 44 members of the Penticton detachment are carrying on the "V" bundles for Britain project—a former project of the B.C. W.S.C., and are establishing a candy stall to raise funds for the Red Cross.

Kelowna detachment, which has 66 members, after helping the local Red Cross has taken on the hostess work of the Toc H recreation room. Members also find billets in private homes for visiting soldiers.

Speaking of Revelstoke Mrs. Jarvis remarked, "I must say the Revelstoke drill impressed me as perfect."

At Kamloops, 52 members maintain a hostess house for boys of the air force and it is called "the most popular place in town."

New Westminster, one of the oldest detachments of the B.C. W.S.C., has just taken on salvage as a major project.

Minerals Vital To Sound Diet

There's so much emphasis on proteins and vitamins in food today that we may overlook the equally important minerals the body needs.

Eating foods rich in minerals is the easiest way to get minerals. Calcium is necessary for adults and children. It is used in building bones, teeth, fingernails and toenails. If adults and children do not have enough calcium daily they are likely to be nervous. They may have cavities in their teeth. They may have muscular soreness. Children may develop rickets and have poor bone and teeth structure.

Milk in its various forms, with the exception of butter, is the best source of calcium. Foods rich in calcium are whole or skimmed milk, buttermilk, dried milk, evaporated milk, condensed milk, whole milk cheese. Other good food sources of calcium are broccoli, cabbage, chard, collards, kale, vegetable greens, molasses, clams. Every day everyone should eat some of the listed foods rich in calcium.

IRON FOR PEP

Iron is necessary for adults and children. If they do not have enough iron daily they are likely to have low vitality, no pep, and a pallid complexion. They may have a decreased number of red blood cells, and develop anemia. Children may have retarded growth.

Meats, egg yolks and green leaves are the foods richest in iron. Good sources of iron in foods are liver, kidney, heart, lean meats, whole eggs and egg yolks, poultry, especially dark meat, oysters, shrimp, vegetable greens, kale, spinach, dried peaches and apricots.

Phosphorus is an important mineral for body functioning, but unfortunately most of the foods which contain calcium also have satisfactory amounts of phosphorus.

Georgian Choir Charms Audience

The Georgian Chorists, well-known ladies' choir directed by Mrs. Georgina Wilt, and its assisting artists, David Oldham, baritone, and Joy Groves, soprano, received well-deserved acclaim from a large and enthusiastic audience at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening.

The occasion was the recital arranged by the choir in aid of the Queen Alexandra Scholarship.

In a well-chosen program the choir once again demonstrated its balance, fine sense of rhythm and tone, and gave every evidence of painstaking rehearsal and a real love of singing for singing's sake.

Miss Joan Winning, the soprano soloist; the trio, Nelly Savin, C. Hardy and B. Gill, and the quartette, composed of J. Winning, L. Weston, J. Leggett and M. Gurney, all acquitted themselves admirably in the various numbers.

David Oldham's fine baritone was heard to advantage in his first Schubert group, "Impatience" and "Impotence," and again in the "Sea Fever" and "Sea Gypsy" (Michael Head).

Miss Joy Groves was a popular favorite in her clever dialect and character songs.

Supported at the piano by Mrs. Freda Groves, Beatrice E. Chadwick also won warm applause for her recitation of "The Royal Visit," which she composed and sent to Her Majesty the Queen, receiving a letter of thanks from the Queen.

Miss Ethel James carried the heavy role of accompanist for the choir with her usual artistry, and Mr. Edgar Holloway lent admirable support at the piano to Mr. Oldham.

At the lecture given recently to Christ Church Guild and Sewing Circle, Dr. Henrietta Anderson spoke to a large and interested audience on "Underprivileged Youth." As always, this dynamic speaker carried conviction and held left her hearers not only with some ideas as to how matters could be improved but with a definite urge to do something about it.

Rev. J. R. Fife opened the meeting with prayer and a few suitable remarks before introducing the speaker. A hearty vote of thanks was moved by the president, Mrs. G. H. Bissell, who also warmly thanked the soloist of the afternoon, Mrs. E. Keating, who charmed the audience with two songs, "I Love a Little Cottage" and "Little Brown Owl."

Tea brought the afternoon to a close, and a nice sum was added to the funds of the guild and the circle, who are sending forward consignments overseas regularly.

Women Engaged in Defence Research

OTTAWA (CP)—Women in white, working within the four walls of their "constant humidity room" in the National Research Council buildings, have the important task of telling the defence services just what may be expected of various fabrics put to wartime use.

Most of them are science graduates of universities. Some of them have assistants to help them as they test one piece of cloth after another.

These are the sort of questions they have to answer: "Will these blankets be warm enough?"

"Is this material strong enough to be used for parachutes?"

"Can deadly gases seep through this cloth?"

Few details of how these women, ranging in age from 19 to 35, go about their job are for publication. They wouldn't even give out their names. But they did tell a little.

For instance, all the fabrics they test are conditioned through being kept in the constant temperature of the windowless working room. Then they are submitted to tests involving many varieties of machinery which are designed to show the physical qualities and defects in such things as woolen blankets, waterproof belts, spools of thread.

Testing possibilities, abrasion durability and color fastness of the fabric are all taken into consideration.

At the lecture given recently to Christ Church Guild and Sewing Circle, Dr. Henrietta Anderson spoke to a large and interested audience on "Underprivileged Youth." As always, this dynamic speaker carried conviction and held left her hearers not only with some ideas as to how matters could be improved but with a definite urge to do something about it.

Rev. J. R. Fife opened the meeting with prayer and a few suitable remarks before introducing the speaker. A hearty vote of thanks was moved by the president, Mrs. G. H. Bissell, who also warmly thanked the soloist of the afternoon, Mrs. E. Keating, who charmed the audience with two songs, "I Love a Little Cottage" and "Little Brown Owl."

Tea brought the afternoon to a close, and a nice sum was added to the funds of the guild and the circle, who are sending forward consignments overseas regularly.

1941 Shows Increase In Tuberculosis

NEW YORK (AP)—Signs that tuberculosis, which has been on the decline for many years, is taking an upturn of world-wide degree, were announced today by the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association.

War, and the lengthened hours of defence work, appear to be the principal causes. The warning was made by G. J. Drolet, statistician and assistant director of the association, in reporting the first figures for tuberculosis in 1940 from 46 American cities.

"While from Europe," Mr. Drolet says, "reports are already being received of a decided increase in tuberculosis mortality, in the United States so far, outside of isolated instances, the rate has been held down somewhat.

"But in certain communities danger signals are appearing in 1941. For instance, in New York City, from Jan. 1 to Nov. 15, new tuberculosis cases numbered 8,355, or 231 more than for the same period a year ago."

The British Medical Journal of last week reported an estimated 1,242 tuberculosis deaths in Glasgow for this year against 960 in 1938. Hongkong reports 5,751, last year against 4,443 in 1939.

A 500 turkey drive will be held under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League in aid of its children's Christmas tree fund Monday evening at 8, at the Lake Hill Community Hall.

Prizes have been donated by city merchants and refreshments will be served.

Buy Nuts Early

People desiring to have nuts and cranberries for the Christmas season should buy them early, wholesale row said this morning. There is a serious shortage of nuts of all types, and the supply of cranberries is considerably lower this year.

Prices will drop in price next week, and likewise grape fruits. There is a steady supply of grapes arriving, although the variety is limited. This week a load of Spanish onions arrived in the city.

Price changes centre around lettuce and tomatoes, with both predicted as being higher in the near future. Cheese will drop a cent or two, immediately due to the ceiling price enforced by the government.

LABOR IGNORED, SAYS MACINNIS

MONTREAL (CP)—Angus MacInnis, C.C.F. member of the House of Commons for Vancouver East, Thursday night criticized the Dominion government for its "lack of social objectives in the war effort and for failing to understand that the present war is a civil war on an international scale—a fight to the death between two different concepts of society."

"To get the will and the mind and the spirit of Canadians behind this war the government must make a clear statement on its social and economic objectives," said Mr. MacInnis, speaking at a party rally on the war aims of the C.C.F. "Military objectives will avail us nothing unless we are to carry that victory on to tackle social and economic problems. So far the government has given us nothing but vague generalities in that respect."

The "saddest" part of Canada's war effort was "the fact that the government has ignored labor. It is hard to understand that any democratic country should ignore organized labor as the government of this country has," he said.

"The trouble with the present federal cabinet is that not one of its members has any experience in the trades union movement, or even any association with men who know anything about the trades union movement."

Still Want Alberta To Border Arctic

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Aherhart referred to the question of Alberta's boundaries being extended northward in an address here Thursday night at the annual round-up of the Northern Alberta and Old Timers' Association.

In responding to the toast to the province, Mr. Aherhart mentioned the wealth of Alberta and added that "when our boundaries are extended to the Arctic Circle, our wealth will be even greater."

At the last session of the Alberta Legislature a resolution was passed urging extension of the province to the Arctic Ocean. Hon. W. A. Fallow, Minister of Public Works, conferred with Dominion government officials on the subject. Nothing definite has been announced on the question and it is thought the matter has been dropped for the duration of the war.

Only an estimated half dozen pairs of kite birds remain in England.
